LONDON, June 7, 7:47 p.m.—For the first time on record, a Zeppelin in the air has been destroyed by an aviator in an aeroplane. Reginald J. Warneford, a young Canadian sub-lieutenant in the royal navy, who mastered aeroplaning only six months, has performed the feat, and tonight is somewhere within the British lines, while a Zeppelin lies in ruins upon the roof and ground of an orphanage near Ghent, burning a blazing mass after being struck by the young aviator's bombs, in which twenty-eight men were killed, as were also several occupants of the orphanage buildings.

It is hoped is advanced that this daring was the craft which raided the coast of England last night,

BUNNY HUG IS VULGAR.

So is the Turkey Trot and Several Others, Say Dance Masters.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 7.—The International Association of Dancing Masters, which began today a six days' convention with demonstrations of new steps, has decreed that the grizzly bear, turkey trot, bunny hug, the Argentine tango glides and all such things are vulgar and barbarous and worthy of eternal relegation to the slough of oblivion. And to assure these passing fancies a certain death a new dance will be evolved by the sixty-five leading masters of the United States and Canada. A new dance—as yet unnamed—is to be announced next Thursday. It is to be a "happy medium" between the fox trot, the canter waltz and the one-step on the one hand, and on the other the good, old-fashioned waltz and two-step of bygone days.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

ANDALUSIA (Ala.) June 7.—Construction of merchantmen rather than battleships was urged by Senator Underwood in an address here today.

"We need transportation facilities," said the Senator. "If we had a number of merchantmen there would be a way to transport our cotton and there would have been no depression of business in the South."

He urged calmness in deliberations with Germany.

COMMENT ON THE SITUATION.

They—the men who usually are credited with initiating movements to end wars, namely, bankers—they are talking of peace, now, above a whisper. But the war goes on and many men will give up their lives and perhaps seven or eight times as many more will be wounded and maimed for life before the negotiations get to the "pour-parler" stage. The Russians seem more utterly crushed than the Belgians, but are making a show of defensive operations. Heavy fighting is going on in the west, but no results have been attained.

The unexpected is about to happen in Mexico. Villa is to ask Carranza to meet with him in a peace conference. Meanwhile the foreigners are fleeing from Mexico.

Brighter Days.

A REAL GOVERNMENT, PROMISE TO MEXICO.

Peace in Ten Days or So Said to be the Hope of Wilson Administration.

President will Today Lay Before His Cabinet the Details of What is Said to be an Entirely "New Deal" to Bring About the End of the Anarchy and Famine South of the Rio Grande.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

EL PASO (Tex.) June 7.—Gen. Francisco Villa has decided to ask Gen. Venustiano Carranza to agree to a neutral territory for a conference to consider the suggestions contained in President Wilson's note, according to a telegram received here tonight from Col. Enrique Perez Rul, private secretary to Villa. The telegram will be dated Aguascalientes.

"Gen. Villa ordered his secretaries to come from Chihuahua to Aguascalientes to draft the note to Carranza," says Col. Rul, "and also the reply he will send to President Wilson. Villa's ministers reached Aguascalientes today."

The Rul statement relates that Villa decided to invite Carranza to agree to a truce "to prevent further sacrifice in the republic which might produce intervention;" that when Villa, in keeping with this suggestion, ordered his troops to retire, Gen. Obregon started in pursuit, "bringing on a battle in Leon."

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 7.—Within the next ten days President Wilson and his Cabinet will take steps to give a real government to Mexico.

At the Cabinet meeting tomorrow morning he will present his ideas for bringing about this end.

The fact that the Carranza forces, under Obregon, seem to have won a notable victory within the past few days does not mean that there is any chance that Carranza will be recognized.

Mexico is to be given an entirely new deal and it was said tonight that the President has in mind a leader in Mexico whom he thinks capable of drawing the support of the best elements of the population.

Conditions in Mexico have become so deplorable within the last few days that the administration has shortened the time for action. The exodus of Americans and other foreigners from Mexico City has begun.

The Brazilian Minister at the Mexican capital wired the State Department that a special train carrying 358 men, women and children was leaving there today. It was furnished by the Mexican authorities. According to the Minister's figures those on the train include ninety Americans, forty-four Englishmen, 127 Spaniards and fifty-seven persons of other nationalities.

There is a wide discrepancy between these figures and those furnished by Consul John R. Silliman at Vera Cruz, who reported that there were 600 Americans and other foreigners ready to leave and that of this number one-half were women and children.

The special train will proceed to Tizayuc, where there is a twenty-eight mile break in the railroad line which will have to be covered by caravan. Mr. Silliman advised the State Department that a train was leaving Vera Cruz with the British Consul and American Consul Shanklin on board to meet the refugees at the eastern end of the gap.

BROWNSVILLE (Tex.) June 7.—Three Mexican generals and ten other Mexicans, connected previously with the army of Gen. Eulalio Gutierrez, have been executed by Indians composing part of the Carranza army under Gen. E. P. Nafarrate, according to Carranza advices made public in Matamoros tonight.

Carranza officers said the party was being sent by Gutierrez to the United States with 1,500,000 pesos, which was to be used in organizing another revolution in Mexico. They were captured last week near Aldamas, Nuevo Leon, it was said, and promptly executed.

The generals executed were, according to the statements, Julian Delgado, Eugenio Aguirre and Guillermo Moran.

ITALIANS SEEK FORMULA TO END THE WAR AT ONCE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ROME, June 7.—Italians at the Vatican, while professing themselves most patriotic and desirous of contributing in all possible ways to facilitate charity and support the Pope fervently in his desire for peace, are now trying to find a formula whereto all belligerents could adhere with honor. It is said Austrians are particularly active in this propaganda. It is the ambition of the Holy See to have a peace congress under the auspices of the Vatican held in some neutral country. It is said in clerical circles that both Austria and Germany are not averse to discussing terms of peace, but their pretentions are still so great that it is unlikely the allies would even examine them.

BERLIN (via The Hague, June 7.)—The King of Greece's condition, which is said to be very grave, and Rumania's attitude, are absorbing all popular interest, only small paragraphs in the newspapers reminding the public that America is still to be heard from. As a result there is no tense expectancy and little speculation as to President Wilson's answer. Its continued postponement is still regarded in German official circles as a most hopeful sign, which is interpreted as indicative that the German statement of facts on which the whole German case is built has impressed President Wilson, whose answer is expected to be couched in softer terms. The Gerhardt mission is regarded as another hopeful sign of delay to give diplomacy time to arrive at satisfactory modus vivendi.

ENVOY FROM HOLLAND WITH GERMANY'S TERMS.

Banker-Diplomat's Mission is Said to be Embarrassing the President.

Great Significance Attached to the Presence of Gildemeester in the United States at this Time—Overtures to End the War in the Critical Moment of the Lusitania Negotiations.

BY JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 7.—At the moment when the United States is about to reiterate peremptory demands upon Germany, that government, through a special Dutch envoy, is asking President Wilson to transmit proposed terms of peace to the allied powers.

The envoy is Jonkheer Van Ghell Gildemeester, a member of the court of Queen Wilhelmina of The Netherlands and connected with banking circles in Holland. He is here equipped with the peace terms as follows:

Evacuation of Belgium and northern France.

Reconstitution of the kingdom of Poland.

Freedom of the seas.

Cession of a strip of Alsace and Lorraine to France in recognition of German sovereignty over Luxemburg.

Acquisition of African colonies by Germany.

Restoration to Germany of all colonies held by that country prior to the war with the exception of Kiao-Chow, which is to be disposed of as Japan sees fit.

Jonkheer Gildemeester arrived in Washington on Friday. Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and possibly the Dutch Minister, were the only two diplomats in Washington who knew of his mission. Through a member of the Federal Reserve Board, believed to be Adolph C. Miller, the Dutch representative sought to obtain access to the Secretary of State, but failed, though the latter is aware of his mission and the information he possesses as to the German terms. It is reported he is the bearer of an autograph letter from Queen Wilhelmina, but whether this be so or not, the fact is he did have credentials which among other things stated the German terms and authorized him to ask the United States to present them to Germany's enemies.

INTERVIEWS DUTCH ENVOY.

What transpired at the interviews the Dutch envoy had with the authorities in Washington is kept secret. No results have flowed from them as yet. That is to say, representations have not yet been made to any of the belligerent governments, though this may be done at any moment. So far as official action is concerned, it is not believed here that President Wilson would be inclined to take it, since he has received no official communication as to Germany's desire for peace on the terms stated. It might very well be that under certain circumstances the Berlin government would repudiate Jonkheer Gildemeester and insist that he acted without its authority, but only upon that of a neutral. For the President therefore to say to the allies:

"These are Germany's terms, will you accept them; or, if not, will you make counter proposals?" would be to place himself in a position where he could be snubbed by the British and allied governments and disavowed by Germany.

WILSON IS EMBARRASSED.

The administration is somewhat embarrassed about taking action unofficially for the reason that Col. E. M. House is believed to be on his way home from Europe. He was last in England, where he had little success in his efforts to induce the London government to give an ear to the terms of Germany. Were he still in London he could be apprised of the message brought by the Dutch representative and could, as a friend of President Wilson, without official status, discuss the matter with Sir Edward Grey, British Minister for Foreign Affairs, or other officials connected with the government. For Ambassador Page to take such a step would be to give an official character to the matter, which unquestionably would be resented by the British and their allies.

That the latest German move is based upon sincerity would be doubted in London, Paris and Petrograd. The view taken of it in these capitals would be that it is on a par with past moves of a precisely similar character. It is obvious that Germany desires to be in this position in the eyes of the neutral world: We have been for peace from the very beginning. We would have been glad of peace months ago. We are willing to make peace now, a peace of the highest advantage to neutrals, since we have embodied "freedom of the seas" in our terms. The responsibility for the continuance of the war will not rest upon us. It will rest upon the allies. They should be held to strict accountability for further injury suffered by neutrals.

POINTS TO BE GAINED.

Again, by injecting peace into the discussion at this time, Germany hopes to avert the entrance of Rumania and Greece, and in all likelihood Bulgaria, into the war. In this connection it is significant that Germany and Turkey have never declared war on Italy. The Ambassador of Turkey is still in Rome, while that of Italy remains in Constantinople. It is also significant that Counselor Hindenburg, who was the chief aide of Prince von Buelow, the German Ambassador, in the negotiations with Italy, prior to the entry of that country into the war, has returned to Rome.

From Rome and Washington, therefore, reports of a possible peace are emanating. These reports are reproduced in the Balkan and Scandinavian countries. And here in the United States the Germans expect them to have an important influence in connection

LIBAU FALLS TO GERMANS.

But Teutons' Lines are Said to to be Cut at Riga.

Army There Surrounded and may be Destroyed.

Great Naval Battle Reported in the Baltic Sea.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

COPENHAGEN, June 7.—Naval battles in the Baltic, in which four German and six allies ships are said to have been sunk, are believed to be the result of an effort by the Germans to relieve the German land forces which are said to be in desperate straits near Libau. Dispatches from Petrograd for several days have indicated that these German forces had been cut off from their base and would speedily be destroyed unless help came. For this reason part of the German fleet was sent from their haven in Kiel Canal.

The city of Libau was reported to have fallen into German hands several days ago, although no details have been forthcoming. The brief announcement, however, was probably correct, as later dispatches told of the Germans pushing on from Libau and are now somewhere near Riga. It is believed their line between Libau and Riga has been cut by the Russians. Petrograd has never reported the fall of Libau, but the information has come from two other sources and is probably correct, although the Germans may not have developed sufficient strength to hold that port and spare troops for the dash against Riga.

RUSSIAN DENIALS.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says:

"Statements appearing in German newspapers to the effect that Libau (on the Baltic Sea) is a fortress and naval base are denied here. It is stated that in 1910 Libau was abandoned as a fortress; that its forts were completely dismantled and that it is now an open seaport.

"That the Germans expect to find there important war material is proved by their sending many steamers to carry away booty but they were disappointed as at the beginning of mobilization all important or valuable property was removed.

"The Russians assert they intended to maintain Libau only while their fleet there predominated, but from the time the German naval forces became superior no serious attempt was made to remain masters of the city which is outside the region of the deployment of land and sea forces and would not have justified the necessary dispersal of troops."

NAVAL BATTLE DENIED.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN, June 7 (via London, June 8, 12:08 a.m.)—Reports received from Copenhagen that the sounds of a naval engagement were heard in the Baltic Saturday were connected by the German Admiralty with the reconnaissance of a German squadron in the Eastern Baltic, in the course of which, as already reported, the Russian mine layer Amur was sunk.

MANY GERMAN SHIPS SUNK.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7.—The naval engagement at the entrance to the Gulf of Riga resulted in the sinking of several German transports and one large vessel not named, says the Petrograd correspondent of the Times. The Russians lost one auxiliary. It is surmised, the correspondent says, that a majority of the German ships hitherto concentrated at Kiel came out into the Baltic, but the battle squadrons apparently were not engaged. It is believed in Petrograd that the Germans will repeat their attempt to land troops on the Russian coast.

WHY RUMANIANS ARE NOT AT WAR.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7, 5:10 p.m.—The following wireless despatch was received here today from Berlin:

"Political discussions in Bucharest, Rumania, brought to light the fact that there exists a formal treaty among Austria-Germany and Rumania. This treaty, which runs until 1920, regulates the relations among these countries and binds Rumania, in case of war, not to attack her allies."

Trapped in a Crater at the Front and Unable to Get Out He is Alleged to Have Pitched Back at the Germans the Bombs They Threw at Him as Fast as They Poured In.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7, 7:07 p.m.—The exploit of a British soldier who lay in the crater made by a shell and hurled back at the Germans bombs which they tossed into the excavation to kill him, is related in a dispatch from the front, under date of June 4 from the official observer attached to the British army, as given out in London tonight.

"After having got into a German trench and finding he was the only survivor of his party, he managed to crawl deep into a shell crater near by," the observer says. "The Germans knew where he was, but could not shoot him, and were prevented by our rifle fire from approaching. They therefore, contented themselves with lobbing hand grenades into the crater.

"All day long this British soldier remained in the hole within a few yards of the enemy, picking up and hurling back bombs with which he was pelted. At night he managed to crawl safely back to our lines."

Another incident described by the official observer has to do with an officer and ten men who, when the Germans stormed and captured British trenches near Ypres, refused to retire. Surrounded by Germans on all sides, they stuck to their trench in the hope of gaining the lost ground by a counter-attack. At nightfall they withdrew after holding the Germans at bay throughout the day.

RUSSIAN CRUISER SUNK BY GERMANS.

[BY WIRELESS AND A. P.]

BERLIN, June 7.—The following statement was given out here officially today:

"A German submarine on June 4 sank the Russian cruiser Amur of the second class, near a Baltic port."

A semi-official statement from Petrograd last night said that the Russian warship Yenisei had been sunk in the Gulf of Riga by a German submarine. The Amur, a mine layer of 2962 tons displacement was a sister ship of the Yenisei and it is probable that the names of these vessels have been confused, apparently only one of them having been sunk.

ATHENS, June 7 (via London, 11:14 a.m.)—The German government has admitted the responsibility of the commander of the German submarine which on April 18 torpedoed and sunk the Greek steamer Ellispontos in the North Sea. The government agrees further to compensate the owners of the vessel, the value of which is to be decided by two experts, one Greek and one German.

It is possible that other survivors were able to reach the coast, where they may have been taken prisoners by the Turks."

RUSSIANS DENY GUN SHORTAGE.

Defeats not Traceable to a Lack of Ammunition.

Reassuring Statement is Made Public in Petrograd.

All Metal Factories Engaged in Making Equipment.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

PETROGRAD, May 20.—"Is Russia short of ammunition?" is the question frequently asked, even in Petrograd.

In answer a Russian army officer has published a reassuring review of the real position of the country in regard to the armament of her military forces.

"After the Japanese war," he says, "the army was reorganized and increased and special attention was devoted to the working capacity of the special arms factories, which, in Russia, are all the property of the state. The factories were enlarged and improved and in several parts of the empire new factories were established.

"The method of production of rifles is so planned that every year the number of rifles manufactured is proportioned to the number of reservists liberated from active service. The life of a rifle in active service is fixed at twelve years, after which period it is replaced by a new one, so that in reality every Russian reservist of the first and second class has his rifle ready in case of mobilization.

"In regard to the territorial force, like the Opoltchenie, which are used only for internal service, there are in the military depots new model rifles which have passed out of active service, and millions of the old model, the so-called Berdan, which is still considered a wonderful weapon.

"As to shells and other kinds of ammunition, there is a noteworthy method of production. In raw materials, including copper and other metals, Russia is so well supplied that it could furnish the whole of the engaged armies. The capacities of the Russian factories is the principal question.

"All the Russian factories producing any kind of metal work were from the moment of mobilization transformed into armanent factories and are fully engaged in this work.

"Russia being free of blockade and possessing splendid communications through Siberia with Japan and America, is able without difficulty to get material of any kind she wants.

"The losses of war material in a war cannot exceed the number of prisoners and dead, plus a certain loss during a retreat by a defeated army, when the material could not be collected.

"The damage to rifles during a battle is so insignificant that it is always covered by the reserve that every army corps possesses.

"The position is different with regard to machine guns. The losses in this class of weapons are sometimes very heavy and replaced with difficulty. This was foreseen by the War Office and Russia is supplied with this kind of weapons."

with the negotiations growing out of the Lusitania tragedy. It is a catchy thing to say to this government:

"We are demanding the freedom of the seas, which is essential to your prosperity."

What "freedom of the seas" is as yet to be stated. Does it contemplate the immunity of private property at sea, and if so, how is this principle to be enforced in time of a war such as that now in progress?

GILDEMEESTER'S AUTHORITY.

Jonkheer Gildemeester, according to what was stated tonight in German circles, has no authority from Berlin to speak for the German government. It does appear that he went to Berlin from The Hague equipped with letters from his court (his father was chaplin of the Queen) and that he saw Herr Von Jagow, the German Minister for Foreign Affairs. It also is declared that he went to London. Whether he saw any responsible official in that city is not known. In any event, he turned up in Washington and has given the impression that he is acting as a mediator for the purpose of inducing the United States to step to the front in order to secure an early peace He left here Saturday for New York, but will return and have a further conference with Secretary Bryan. The latter claims that he has not seen him; that he was too busy when he called at the State Department, and that he will talk with him later on.

Whether the Gildermeester overtures has any connection with the delay in the dispatch of the second note in regard to the Lusitania is not known. The State Department has been saying daily that the President was engaged in polishing the document, which accounted for the inability to cable it earlier to Berlin.

It was said tonight that the note was finally completed and had been sent to the Department of State. At the Department of State it was stated that the document would go tomorrow or Wednesday. As a matter of fact, the note was finished Friday afternoon after the meeting of the Cabinet. Its transmission was postponed because President Wilson did not want the American people to become impatient with Germany because of failure immediately to make a response. It is known by the administration that Germany will not reply until Dr. Meyer Gerhard, Count Von Bernstorff's special agent, has arrived in Berlin, about June 18. It is figured now that the American note will not be delivered to the German Minister of Foreign Affairs before June 10 or June 11. If Germany makes answer within ten days from its receipt, this will be entirely reasonable and cannot be objected to by the American public.

It is believed here that the mission of Gildemeester is a part of a great game; that it is a shrewd step taken by Germany with the full cognizance of Queen Wilhelmina and her court, which are pro-German in their sympathies. It is presumed, in view of the publicity given the matter that the President will proceed to make a thorough investigation before committing himself to any course of action that can have but one result in the present circumstances, according to the best information available—a snub from the allies.

Gildemeester Gives the Impression in Washington that the Britishers are as Anxious to Have the War Settled as Some of the Other Nations and Their Luckless Neighbors.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Van Ghell Gildemeester, son of the religious adviser to Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, has by a brief visit to Washington, after conferences in Berlin with high German officials, set in motion much speculation in official and diplomatic quarters here about possibility of peace in Europe.

On his arrival here last week he visited Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador. The latter, learning that Mr. Gildemeester had been in Berlin and had been at the German Foreign Office, gave his visitor a letter of introduction setting these facts forth.

The Ambassador asked the Associated Press tonight to emphasize that Mr. Gildemeester carried no credentials from Germany and had absolutely no official connection with his government.

Mr. Gildemeester left Washington Saturday without seeing any prominent officials of the American government. He started on a trip to New York, Chicago, and other cities with the idea of convincing the editors of German-American newspapers of the help they can render in promoting more friendly relations between Germany and the United States.

While in Washington, the visitor from The Netherlands gave the impression to those with whom he talked that there was a peace party of some importance in Great Britain, as well as in Germany and that what was most needed at present was a continued pressure by the neutrals for mediation. He intimated to some of his friends that he feared his own country—Holland—might even be drawn into the conflict if it continued, but was hopeful that efforts by neutrals to mediate if begun now would be successful.

Most significant of the impressions which Mr. Gildemeester brought from Berlin, it was said today, was that a large section of the populace and an important element in the German government itself were not in sympathy with the extreme militarists and believe a discussion of peace terms not undesirable.

Just how far Mr. Gildemeester may have been encouraged in Berlin to present his views to the people in the United States is not definitely known. Jane Addams and others interested in peace who have recently visited Berlin have been cordially received by high German officials and in German quarters here lately there has been constant reference to the likelihood of peace growing out of the present correspondence concerning neutral rights.

In allied quarters here any talk of peace emanating from Germany is looked upon with much circumspection and doubt, and the time is regarded as inopportune, with German troops on French, Belgian and Russian soil. It is suggested, too, that peace talk might be designed to divert the attention of the government and people of the United States from the serious issues involved in the sinking of the Lusitania.

Mr. Gildemeester is expected back in Washington in a few days. He may not desire to see officials, but to inform himself in other ways on the feeling concerning peace as it would be reflected in the diplomatic and the official quarters of the capital of the largest neutral nation. He plans to return to Europe soon.

REPORTS THE CAPTURE OF THREE SUBMARINES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Three German submarines recently were trapped and captured in the Firth of Tay near Glasgow according to persons arriving here today on the steamer Cameronia from Glasgow and Liverpool. It was asserted that the sea boats had penetrated far into the Firth of Tay, not far from the city, had been detected there and trapped by nets dropped in the narrow fairway, through which they would have to leave. They remained submerged for sixty hours, it was said, then came to the surface and surrendered.

No such incident has been mentioned in any of the official British announcements.

Drug User Testifies Against Accused Officials.

Nine Dens Run Under Protection in San Francisco.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Around a long table in a small room of the offices of the State Pharmacy Board members of the board, inspectors and attorneys, and John F. Neylan, president of the State Board of Control, sat today for five hours straining to catch every detail of the story of the "inside" of the alleged San Francisco opium ring, its personnel and its alleged bribery of the Pharmacy Board's inspectors for protection in their illicit trafficking in drugs. Grover Pickler, a self-confessed drug user, told the story.

He was the strongest witness Chief Inspector Frederick A. Sutherland of the Pharmacy Board offered to substantiate his charges against Board Inspectors William White, Samuel Scott and Harry Carmack that the latter protected drug traffickers for pay.

As the hours dragged under a continual crossfire of questioning from all sides, Pickler's drug-wasted features twitched, his eyes shifted and his voice broke from a crescendo to the guttural, while he sat hunched in his witness chair, never still a moment. At the end of his testimony he blackened a blotter with meaningless pencil scribbling.

Neylan excused him finally when his denial of his customary afternoon drink of "yen shee" and port wine had left him almost incoherent in his testimony. He told Neylan that he had been a heavy user of drugs, but that he had cut the portion of two drinks of the scrapings of the smoked opium pipe mixed with wine.

In the main, Pickler substantiated his affidavit, accusing White of taking bribe money from opium den keepers in San Francisco, and told the board and Neylan of how White gave him morphine in the San Francisco jail and how he and other prisoners in the Sacramento jail obtained the drug from visitors. He told, too, of drug stores in Omaha, Neb., and Little Rock, Ark., which, he said, supply the San Francisco traffickers with the drug, and how seizure of the drug express shipments by Federal agents was evaded by consigning them to Fort Bragg, Cal., and then inducing the express agents to secretly sidetrack them here. Then, he said, a dummy package was receipted for at Fort Bragg.

NINE DENS OPEN.

Pickler said there are nine opium dens in San Francisco. He described their operations and their protection, and how he and White "shook down" one Chinese house for $35 in a raid in which a policeman participated. White read a newspaper account of the morning testimony as Pickler told that part of his story.

Mr. Neylan, just before adjournment, picked many inconsistencies in Pickler's testimony, which the witness attributed to his avid desire for "yen shee," saying that his memory tricked him when he was denied his daily portion. He looked at the clock continually.

The other witness of the day developed little new. Mrs. W. G. Patterson, who Sutherland alleged paid tribute to White for protection, could not remember anything except that William A. Mundell, a detective employed by the Pharmacy Board, had told her that he had a "whiter complexion than any woman." She thought he was a beauty doctor when he was seeking evidence against her.

The hearing will be resumed tomorrow, when Pickler will again take the stand. Chief Inspector Sutherland said he would summon fifty witnesses to prove his charges against the inspectors and resident members of the Pharmacy Board. Among the witnesses are members of the board who he charges refused to press charges against their inspectors.

DUKE OF MASSARI HAS TWO WIVES.

DIVORCE, FOLLOWED BY SECOND WEDDING, SET ASIDE BY THE COURTS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—A decree of absolute divorce granted by the Civil District Court in New Orleans to the Duke of Massari, from his first wife, was set aside today by the Louisiana Supreme Court. After the decree had been obtained the Duke married Countess Rita Zucconi, here.

The first wife obtained at her home in Florence, Italy, a decree of separation and the Duke settled upon her and their daughter approximately $1,500,000, according to his petition in the local court. After meeting the Countess Zucconi here he applied for the absolute decree. It was granted and the first wife attacked it.

In setting aside the ruling, the Supreme Court stated that as absolute divorce was not provided for in Italian statutes such decision in the Louisiana courts, predicated upon the separation decree obtained in Italy, was unlawful even though the Duke sought a decree ostensibly against himself. The Duke and his second wife are in Italy.

Congressional Union Snubbed by Suffrage Convention.

Militant Methods not Wanted by National Officers.

Are Declared Inimical to "The Great Cause."

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Disapproval of the Congressional Union was voiced today at the first session of the mid-year conference of the National Woman Suffrage Association.

A resolution introduced by Mrs. Harriet Taltier Upton was unanimously adopted and provided in effect that the association was unalterably opposed to the attacks on the Democratic party by the Congressional Union, which the resolution said had failed of benefit in the suffrage States and other Eastern States where she women still were seeking the ballot.

The alleged attitude of the Congressional Union in opposing political parties which oppose suffrage at Washington furnished the main topic of the day and the discussion was continued into an extemporaneous night session. The subject is expected to come up again tomorrow.

Originally the Union was a part of the association, but the parent body no longer recognizes it except as an organization whose so-called militant methods are regarded by the association as inimical to the cause of equal suffrage.

The only chance the union had for recognition disappeared when a resolution introduced by Mrs. T. W. Youmans, president of the Wisconsin Woman Suffragists, proposing arbitration on the subject was tabled, 49 to 25.

STEAM ROLLER TACTICS.

Mrs. Youmans, indignant in connection with the loss of her resolution, accused Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the association, with "steam-roller" tactics in declining to allow discussion of the resolution after the motion to table had been made by Mrs. Stanley McCormick of New York.

Dr. Shaw said that she had devoted ten minutes of every speech to explaining that the association does not sanction the activities of the Congressional Union and she blamed the union for defeats in Nebraska and South Dakota.

Representatives of the States were called upon to present progress in organization by Congressional districts. The presentation from the South was unexpectedly large while New York ant other Eastern States were the women are fighting for the ballot, sent restricted delegations.

AEROPLANE DESTROYERS TO ATTACK DIRIGIBLES.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

ROME, May 25.—An aeroplane "destroyer," designed for attacking dirigible airships, has been perfected in Italian government workshops during the past few months. It is an enormous machine with separate engines, and with a total energy of over 250 horse power.

The aeroplane combines the tractor and pusher type of machines—that is, those which are drawn along by an air screw in front and those which are pushed by an air screw behind.

The big machine is capable of lifting a huge cargo of bombs large enough to be certain to destroy a Zeppelin if they hit, and even capable of doing serious damage to a battleship.

Zeppelin Torpedoed.

for the fact that it was in the air over Belgium, between Ghent and Brussels, at 3 o'clock in the morning leads to the belief that it was returning from an expedition, not starting.

It is presumed that the craft was headed for her home hangar when Warneford came winging swiftly under the gray skies.

The Zeppelin, which was flying comparatively low, began to mount at once, but the British wasp was speedier, and climbed into the air in long spirals, reaching a position at length over the Germans' vast bulk. From this point of vantage Warneford burst the Zeppelins shell repeatedly with his incendiary bombs.

Without parallel in this war or any other is the story the young aviator will have to relate. While details of the fight have not yet been learned, it is known that first came the long pursuit. According to the Admiralty report, the aeroplane was 6000 feet up and to reach this altitude would require nearly twenty minutes. The Zeppelin meantime could drive forward approximately fifteen miles.

Then followed the maneuvering for position, and finally the dropping of the bombs, from which the dirigible tried vainly to escape. Minor explosions, occasionally, and at last one of terrific force, occurred, and the Zeppelin burst into flames. Warneford must have been close over the dirigible for almost simultaneously with the outburst his machine turned completely over, and for a moment he turned head down and his monoplane, all control of which had been lost, pitched and tossed in the swift currents of air which rushed up to fill the vacuum created.

Then by a desperate effort Warneford righted his machine and planed to a landing behind the German lines. He alighted unhurt, set his propeller going again, and flew off to the west.

Whether the Zeppelin's machine guns or rifles were turned on the aviator is not disclosed, but in order to attain such an advantageous position the British lieutenant must have handled his machine skillfully. Although the target the Zeppelin presents is extensive, it can be lifted by its own buoyancy to a great height, while the pursuing aeroplane has to rise in spirals by the power of its engine alone.

As the fight in midair occurred over that part of Belgium held by the Germans, hopes are raised in London that the Germans will be forced to move their Zeppelin base eastward, thus making raids on England more hazardous.

Some of the reports say that the noncombatant victims were two nuns and two orphans and that others were injured, but a Reuter dispatch received tonight says two nurses and two children were killed, and as many others injured.

All versions agree that the Zeppelin crew perished, and this seems certain, as the great craft was struck while more than a mile in the air and must have been a roaring torch before it struck the earth.

OFFICIAL STATEMENT.

The official statement follows:

"This morning at 2:30 a.m. an attack was made on an airship shed at Evere, north of Brussels, by Flight Lieutenants J. P. Wilson, R.N., and J. S. Mills, R.N. Bombs were dropped and the shed was observed to be in flames. It is not known whether a Zeppelin was inside, but the flames reached a great height, coming out from both sides of the shed. Both pilots returned safely.

"At 3 a.m. this morning Flight Sub-Lieutenant R. A. J. Warneford, R.N., attacked a Zeppelin in the air between Ghent and Brussels. At 6000 feet he dropped six bombs and the airship exploded, fell to the ground and burned for a considerable time.

"The force of the explosion caused the Morane monoplane to turn upside down. The pilot succeeded in righting the machine, but had to make a forced landing in the enemy's country. However, he was able to restart his machine, and returned safely to the aerodrome."

ANOTHER VERSION.

The correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company at Amsterdam supplies some details of the destruction of a Zeppelin airship between Ghent and Brussels by aviators in a monoplane.

He declares the Telegraaf has received a dispatch from Ghent saying that when the Zeppelin came down it landed on an orphanage. Two nuns and two orphans were killed, while many others in the establishment were injured. The crew of the Zeppelin, twenty-eight men, lost their lives.

NEW BRUNSWICK (N. J.) June 7.—Nine deputies convicted of manslaughter in connection with the killing of two strikers and wounding of many others last January at Roosevelt, N. Sixteen other deputies, facing the same charge, murder, are in the county jail here awaiting trial.

KNIGHTS OF HONOR GET INTO COURT.

RECEIVER FOR INSURANCE ORDER IS ASKED BY MISSOURI OFFICIALS.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

ST. LOUIS (Mo.) June 7.—Application was made to the Federal District Court here today for the appointment of a receiver for the Knights of Honor, a fraternal organization. The application asks that the lodge be declared insolvent.

It declares that on April 30 last the liabilities of the order were approximately $600,000, and the assets $400,000. The outstanding insurance is placed at $23,000,000. The petition says the Insurance Commissioner of Missouri reported to the Attorney-General of the State on March 16, 1915, that an official examination disclosed that the order was not carrying out its contracts in good faith and that quo warranto proceedings should be instituted against it.

TEN INJURED IN CAR CRASH.

Premature Signal to Start on a "Balance System" Line.

Collision on a Steep Grade of Fillmore-street Hill.

Exposition Official Probably Fatally Hurt.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Two coupled runaway cars, with nearly a hundred passengers aboard, speeded two blocks down a steep grade on the Fillmore-street hill today and plunged into two other cars, injuring ten persons. One of them, John D. O'Neil, chief of concessions at the Panama-Pacific Exposition, was dangerously hurt. Physicians thought his skull was fractured and both legs were broken. Internal injuries may also have been sustained.

Passengers aboard the two cars at the base of the grade were hurried out by the car crew before the collision.

Motorman Lou Rushing of the runaway cars said he received a signal to release his brakes before a cable, which operates the two sets of cars on a balance system, was attached to the upcoming cars. Rushing and another jumped from the car. Other passengers injured were:

Miss Margaret Beck, Mrs. Anna Palmer, R. H. Hargadine, Miss Helen Gordon, Dorothy Dahnr, Lena Bevins, Lewis Rushing, James Noonan and Edward Long, all of San Francisco and vicinity, and only slightly injured.

The Unalga brought Fred Campbell, one of two codfishermen lost in dories from the steamer Galilee. The survivors' feet were frozen and amputation was necessary.

The wooden ship Sintram, 1656 gross tons, was built at Freeport, Maine, in 1877, and was owned by San Francisco cannery company.

EPARATE BEDS ON HONEYMOON.

Wife Says She Pleaded on Her Knees Against It.

Admits in Court She Uses a Lip Stick and Smokes.

Mrs. McCormick Asks Divorce from Husband.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK BUREAU OF THE TIMES, June 7.—Robert McCormick, assistant District Attorney was the defendant in the Supreme Court today in a separation suit brought by Mrs. Frances S. B. McCormick, who said she had lost 18 pounds since she became his wife, about two and a half years ago in Philadelphia. This unsought reduction was due to the cruelty of her husband, she asserted. Mrs. McCormick emphatically admitted on the witness stand that sometimes she smokes cigarettes, even in such places as the dining-room of the Ritz-Carlton and on one occasion a Pullman smoking car.

"Yes, and I'm not ashamed of it, either," she said.

She explained, without quibble that she used a lip-stick when she attended a dance, where her husband refused to dance with her, because as he put it "You are the only painted thing in the room." One form of her husband's alleged cruelty that Mrs. McCormick seriously objected to was the twin bed arrangement in the apartment while they were in Atlantic City on their honeymoon. "I pleaded with him on my knees not to live like that," she said, "but all he did was to stare at me with a glassy look in his eyes."

HARD LOSER.

Describing another instance of her husband's alleged cruelty, Mrs. McCormick said: "He cursed me because at golf I beat him at golf. He said it made him look cheap."

The plaintiff testified that she obtained a divorce from a former husband with whom she made her home in San Francisco and Philadelphia. She said that in the courting days preceding her marriage to the deputy assistant district attorney he treated her "perfectly lovely," and the strongest beverage he drank in that period was vichy. After they were married, she asserted, her husband changed to stronger liquid.

"I weighed 154 pounds when I was married," Mrs. McCormick continued on the witness stand. "Now I weigh only 136. I was in abject terror of my life and when I told my husband that I could no longer endure his treatment, he said, 'get.'"

ELBERT HUBBARD'S WILL.

Names of the Children of His First Marriage are not Even Mentioned in the Testament.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

BUFFALO (N. Y.) June 7.—The wills of Elbert Hubbard and his wife, who lost their lives in the Lusitania disaster, were filed for probate in Surrogate's Court here today. The documents were drawn by Mr. Hubbard and were almost identical. Both provided that in case one survived the other, the estate should be divided equally between Elbert Hubbard II, Bert and Miriam, daughter. Several other children by Hubbard's first marriage are not mentioned in the will.

The value of the estate is problematical, although it is known that Mr. Hubbard carried insurance policies amounting to more than $100,000. He owned considerable real estate at East Aurora.

IS THERE SUCH A PLACE?

Question Raised as to the Existence of Crocker Land, Said to Have Been Discovered by Peary.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Whether Crocker Land, which Rear-Admiral Robert E. Peary believed he saw at a distance when in the Arctic region north of the western part of the American continent, is a myth, an illusion and a mirage, was the subject of discussion among scientists today.

The argument arose over a letter from Donald B. MacMillan, now in the Arctic regions, at the head of an expedition sent there to ascertain whether Crocker Land really existed.

In a letter to the New York Tribune Mr. MacMillan said that Crocker Land does not exist, but that from the heights of Capt. Thomas Hubbard, and for several days on the Polar Sea, there was every appearance of an immense tract of land with hills and snow-capped peaks in the northwest. As they marched toward it Mr. MacMillan reported it shifted its location and eventually disappeared.

Dr. Henry F. Osborn, president of the American Museum of Natural History, one of the institutions which supported the MacMillan expedition, was quoted today as saying:

"It seems to have been demonstrated clearly that there is no land there."

Dr. Osborne said Rear-Admiral Peary did not claim to have actually discovered the land, but that from the date he furnished in regard to the probability of its being there it seemed likely that he was right.

"It is apparent in MacMillan's letter that he saw the same mirage that Peary noticed," said Mr. Osborne.

Herbert L. Bridgman said that Rear-Admiral Peary recently repeated to him that he saw what he believed to be land.

"Admiral Peary said to me several times before: 'I never say that a thing is land until I have my foot on it,'" added Mr. Bridgman.

Rear-Admiral Peary was at his summer home on Eagle Island, off the Maine coast, and his views on the MacMillan report could not be obtained.

Owner of the Queens Hotel in Queenstown Tells Why He Has Come to America to Live.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Otto Humbert, owner of the Queens Hotel at Queenstown, where many survivors of the Lusitania were sheltered, reached New York today, a voluntary exile from Great Britain. Mr. Humbert, although a naturalized British citizen, is of German birth. This fact aroused so much criticism from the friends of the Lusitania survivors, it is said, that he found it difficult to remain in Queenstown, notwithstanding his scrupulous care to so deport himself as to be above suspicion.

Mrs. J. Harvey Page, a passenger on the St. Louis, aboard which Mr. Humbert arrived made the long trip from Liverpool to New York so she might scatter roses on the sea above the spot where her husband was lost when the Lusitania went down. Having done this she will return at once to her home in Birmingham, Eng. The St. Louis brought seven survivors of the Lusitania tragedy. Eros Curtin, a New York chemist who has been in the field with the allied armies, also was a passenger. He described the gas used by the Germans as of three kinds, chlorine, bromine and so-called laughing gas.

The last he said, is of a kind that paralyzes the men from the waist down and causes them to flop about like fish out of water and laugh hysterically. Sodium sulphate and oxygen were used to neutralize these gases, he said, but these were ineffective if not taken soon after the gas had been inhaled.

Even then, he said, it takes at least six hours to revive the men.

LIVING BUDDHA FOR MONGOLIA.

Treaty Signed Gives People Their Own Ruler.

Russia and China in Charge of External Affairs.

Bear and Dragon Reach a Basis for Peace.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—The signing today at Kiakhta, Siberia, by representatives of Russia, China and Mongolia of a treaty establishing the status of Outer Mongolia, marks the removal of one of the main obstacles to a complete understanding between China and Russia, according to views in Washington diplomatic circles.

The prolonged negotiations, lasting nearly a year, have been watched with closest interest here. According to some diplomatists from the East, the new treaty really provides for a return to conditions that existed for nearly a century in Mongolia and up to the revolution of 1912 whereby Mongolia secured recognition of her independence by formal treaty with Russia. The substantial difference between the new and old order of things lies in the formal acceptance of Russia's dominating influence in the external relations of Outer Mongolia.

The new convention provides for a joint guarantee by China and Russia of Mongolian autonomy conditioned upon the recognition of the right of China and Russia to be consulted in all questions affecting the external relations of Mongolia. A Chinese representative with his staff is to remain in Urga, capital of Outer Mongolia, which is to have the privilege of maintaining a Chinese guard of ample proportions to protect his mission. The "living Buddha" is recognized as the head of the Outer Mongolian government, corresponding in the exercise of his functions to the Grand Llama in Tibet.

The treaty does not in any way affect Inner Mongolia, which remains under Japanese jurisdiction.

LONDON HEARS OF TREATY.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7.—A Reuter dispatch from Petrograd says that the special envoys of Russia, China and Mongolia signed today at Kiakhta, Siberia, the tri-partite treaty regarding the autonomy of Outer Mongolia. This treaty was agreed upon after a conference that has lasted for nearly a year.

By the terms of the agreement China will retain a nominal suzerainty over Mongolia, but neither China nor Russia will interfere with the administration of Mongolia's internal affairs.

DANISH CELEBRATION.

Five Thousand Members of Their Brotherhood Take Part in Ceremonies at the Frisco Exposition.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—Danish Brotherhood Day was celebrated at the Panama-Pacific Exposition today, more than 5000 members of the Danish Brotherhood who are holding their convention in this city being present. The ceremonies were begun by a fanfare of ancient "lurs" from the tower of Elsinore Castle, the Danish pavilion at the exposition being a reproduction of the castle of Shakespeare's tragedy.

The Danish-American singers rendered airs of Denmark and addresses were made by several prominent Danes. C. J. Clemens of San Francisco was chairman of the day.

Civil Service in Balance.

or a year to get it back into good condition again. The harm done to this institution has damaged the State more than fifty jobs are worth. And this condition was caused by the president of the State Civil Service Commission (Charles Wesley Reed, classmate of Gov. Johnson, and his appointee,) who dragged people up for hearings, bringing charges indiscriminately, interfering with institutions and tearing them down."

Friends of civil service present listened with amazement. There have been rumors of bad blood between Reed and Neylan ever since the Civil Service Commission got after some of Neylan's political friends in the Yountville investigation. In an evident fit of temper Neylan seemed throwing discretion to the winds. "Something must be done," he went on," or we are going to see a great deal of the good work of this administration destroyed.

"To hear these men talk" (this to the opponents of the bill) "one would almost believe that every head of a department in the State is a devil, and every employee in the departments an angel. They attribute sinister motives to the head of departments, making you believe that every head would come off in a grand slash right and left, kicking out worthy men simply for the enjoyment of the thing. This is all bunk, bunk of the purest kind!"

HAS A MAD ON.

The situation was growing tense. The representatives of the municipal Civil Service Board showed plainly by their attitudes that they were in no humor to be abused and berated for defending civil service. But the Governor here interrupted to soothe Neylan by saying some nice things about the State Board of Control.

"I am sure no member of the State Board of Control wants to destroy civil service," he said. "The Board of Control has been the right arm of the administration."

Then Neylan continued his attack. "Governor, the efficiency of the State government has been built up independently of the Civil Service Commission. It has been built up by the heads of departments."

Neylan then discussed the question of holding investigations. He asserted that no one outside the Board of Control should be permitted to investigate; that interference by the civil service only balls things up. In one thing he made himself perfectly clear: he is firmly of the opinion that a State political machine can be operated much more efficiently without any interference on the part of a State civil service.

At the close Gov. Johnson made the somewhat equivocal statement:

"Civil service will remain in effect just so long as you will administer civil service sympathetically. I am going to save civil service from being harmed in this State."

Then, to the surprise of the civil service officials the Governor arrayed himself on the side of Neylan and against civil service investigations. "I am opposed to the Civil Service Commission going into State departments to make investigations, air scandals and disrupt discipline and conditions. I am opposed to that sort of thing in the State government."

"Where there is at the head of a department a man on his toes, working for results and efficiency, I believe that man is better equipped to judge the efficiency of his men than any three men on earth."

Then the Governor said he would consider the bill further before acting. If it is not signed by midnight of June 12 it dies by way of the pocket veto; if the Governor should sign the bill the right of referendum still remains to the friends of civil service.

MORE SHIPS SUNK IN THE WAR ZONE.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

LONDON, June 7, 9 p.m.—The German armed steamer Hermann von Wissmann has been destroyed near Sphinxhaven, according to a statement given out this evening by the British official press bureau.

The statement says the Hermann von Wissmann was destroyed by the shell fire of a British naval force. The steamer had been lying in Lake Nyassa, Southeast Africa, since her disablement by the Nyassaland steamer Gwendolyn last August. Sphinx Haven is in German territory on the eastern shore of Lake Nyassa. It was bombarded and captured May 30.

The trawler Arctic has been sunk in the North Sea by a German submarine. Five members of her crew were rescued, but four lost their lives from the shell fire of the under-water boat.

Among those killed was the skipper of the Arctic, whose head was blown off while he was helping to launch a boat in which the survivors escaped under cover of a fog.

The submarine, it is asserted, gave no warning before opening fire on the Arctic.

The British bark Sunlight of Liverpool, 1298 tons net, has been sunk by a German submarine.

The captain and crew of the bark arrived at Queenstown today. They say that they were given time to take to their boats before the vessel was sunk by shell fire from the submarine. The Sunlight left Macoris, Santo Domingo, May 1, for the Clyde.

The trawler Dromio of Hull also has been sent to the bottom by a submarine. The crew escaped and have been landed at Peterhead.

A dispatch from Aberdeen says the British steamer Star of the West has been sunk by a German submarine. A trawler brought the crew into Aberdeen.

TOO WISE to fall for the Real Estate Man---

Eight years ago two friends arrived in Los Angeles. One bought a home on terms. The other thought himself too "wise" to fall for the real estate man's game and he is still paying rent.

The first man paid $20 per month on his home including interest and about $2.50 per month insurance and taxes.

The second man paid from $20 to $25 per month rent and averaged at least $1.00 per month for moving.

The first man had his own garden, flowers and fruit.

The second had the inconvenience of moving about once a year, living in old houses, never knowing who his predecessors may have been or what diseases were lurking in the corners.

The first took a great interest in his home.

The second cared little about his temporary stopping place, and so spent little time with his family.

RESULT—After 8 years the first man has a deed to his home conservatively worth $2000.

MEXICO CITY MOBS IN RIOTS FOR FOOD.

[A. P. FOREIGN CORRESPONDENCE.]

MEXICO CITY, Saturday May 22.—For the last three days the sessions of the so-called national convention in the Chamber of Deputies building have been scenes of the wildest disorder. Not only the galleries, but at times the floor and Speaker's tribune, have been invaded by hordes of hungry men, women and children.

The shouts of "We want corn!" drowned all others, and even the show of fireworks and the firing of the soldiers over the heads of the mob have not checked their vain and pitiful search for food. The Red Cross has been busy carrying off women and children, in some cases, old men, overcome in these manifestations. Ten thousand gathered outside of the chamber today and nearly all were carried off on stretchers. Finally President Gen. Roque Gonzalez Garcia appeared before the convention and a portion of the mob told them the treasury was empty, the country laid waste by the contending revolutionaries, and that the only hope for the coming winter was that all Mexicans lay down their arms and begin the tilling of the fields. Repeatedly the crowds answered him, saying "Give us corn. Our women and children are dying of hunger. Give us corn!"

A comparatively small supply was obtained from the foreign relief committee and this assuaged the wants of the day.

Crops everywhere are short and in all save five of the twenty-seven states of Mexico there is absolute want with the new harvest many months away and mythical because to a large extent unplanted. Even states as productive as Morelos and Guanajuato are calling for corn, while armies turn their cavalry into anything green to be found and kill cattle and other farm animals for their hides. It is estimated that unless relief comes from the outside, more than 13,000,000 persons will be in danger of starvation. In normal times it requires approximately 1,800,000 tons of corn to feed these 13,000,000. Farmers and grain dealers say this must be obtained in the United States, but as Mexico has no money to pay for even a part of what is needed, she will be compelled to throw herself on the charity of the United States, according to these authorities.

PEACE IN THREE MONTHS PREDICTION OF MIRELES.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Gustavo Espinosa Mireles, private secretary to Gen. Venustiano Carranza, who reached New York yesterday on his way to Washington on what he termed a "very important mission," issued a statement today in which he said that peace seemed near in Mexico and that the campaign of Carranza forces against Villa and his followers would not be prolonged more than three months.

Senor Mireles said he had just received a message confirming news of the crushing defeat against Gens. [illegible] near Leon by Gen. Obregon with the capture of all the artillery and trains of the defeated armies. Carranza troops, the statement continued, under the command of Pablo Gonzales, were about to take possession of Mexico City.

"Before my departure from Vera Cruz," the statement continues "the first chief had ordered the Governors of the central States to prepare trains of cereals which are in readiness to be taken into the capital as soon as it is occupied by our forces. This will solve in a thorough manner the Mexican situation.

"I believe that with the last magnificent victory obtained by the Constitutionalist forces the campaign will not be prolonged over three months more."

Today and Tomorrow

By EDWIN BLISS

Payne started to look about him at the wreckage, when a heavy step from the doorway made him turn abruptly, to see his employer entering the room. Framed in the doorway he stood, staring about him with knitted brows. Behind the men had gathered about his touring car, the sound of their threatening murmurs a low buzz—the buzz of a mob just barely held in check.

"Well?" he snapped.

"Mutiny against the food," Payne explained. "I 'phoned you yesterday again for orders as to what was to be done. The men really can't be blamed, Mr. Munroe. They haven't had stuff fit for a dog to eat."

"Humph!"

The old man picked up a remnant of crockery upon the floor upon which some of the food still clung. He regarded it disgustedly a second, then allowed it to drop quickly from his hand as a sniff of it caught his nostrils.

"Phew! Can't blame anybody kicking at such stuff," he muttered, then a frown of annoyance grew into heavy anger upon his countenance.

"You've written me three times about this situation, haven't you?" he demanded, abruptly; then, without waiting for an answer, as Payne flushed and started to stammer: "I don't want to hear anything about that. It's my own fault; trust Julia to ever do anything. Every morning the same thing; every night—wait till tomorrow. The girl seems absolutely to have no sense of responsibility, of the rights of others, anything save her own right to put off—put off—put off."

Payne hung his head, avoiding the glowering eye of the old man. There was no denying what had just been said. Somehow, he had felt from the beginning that his fiancee's dilatoriness was in some measure responsible for the neglect that had led up to this scene of havoc. Yet everything within him rose up to her defense. Before he had time to formulate a defense, Ira Munroe whirled upon his heel and stepped out into the center of the angry group.

It was characteristic of the man that the moment he saw a situation and grasped its full significance he took hold of it and battled for the mastery. Payne stepped quickly up beside him, fearful of the result of such an attempt while the men were in their present humor. Munroe brushed him aside, lifting his hand.

"I understand there's been some complaint about the food," he began, a twinkle in his eye that melted some of the threatening glances fastened upon him. "I have understood it was bad for some time, but I didn't realize how bad food could be until I took a —." He wrinkled his face wryly and the ice was broken.

From the back of the crowd a man laughed. In a second he was joined by others and soon Munroe held them in the palm of his hand.

"Well, it's going to get better and get better right away," he declared, emphatically. "I'll go you one better than that, men, and tell you it's going to get good. Tonight you can look forward to a real supper—a real supper, understand."

He turned upon Payne, even as the men were wildly cheering, knowing that now was the psychological moment to make his strongest play.

"Get in my car, Lee," he commanded, "and don't waste any time getting back here with a load of grub—have it here for supper."

As the superintendent nodded and quickly re-entered the office, the old man waved the men away curtly to their work, standing a moment looking after them. There was a curious smile upon his face as Payne appeared from the outer room, where he had his living quarters, dressed neatly for the town.

"You needn't tell Julia what I said about her," Ira Munroe laughed as he grasped the blushing young chap's hand. "Somehow, I can't stay angry with her for long, no matter what she does. But she's got to be taught a lesson some time, and I hope you're the one to do it."

Lee Payne laughed, laughed as he entered the car and whirled off from the fields toward the city. Somehow he, too, could not remain angry for long with Julia; somehow he was glad that she was as she was. Perhaps he would not have laughed so lightly, perhaps his thoughts might have been fastened upon sterner thoughts had he looked behind him and caught sight of the leering, threatening face staring after him; staring after him long after the vehicle was swept up in a cloud of dust.

II.

For once Julia Munroe was ready, impatiently waiting the arrival of her sweetheart. He had told her nothing of the reason for his coming to town in the middle of the week, told her nothing of the row. But he had spoken of something which had made her jump from the mass of cushions against which she spent a goodly portion of her days, and hustle into her most becoming afternoon gown. Just a week remained before the date of their wedding, and she had delayed in characteristic fashion procuring any of the clothes she had spent so many hours planning and dreaming out upon the divan.

She plunged immediately to the subject, even before Payne's arms had relaxed about the waist of her, looking up into his face in the tantalizing irresistible fashion which he, as well as her father, always found so irresistible.

"Now, there's no use telling me why you came to town; there's no sense trying to talk to me about food for the men. There'll be plenty of time after you look over a few little things in the shops with me."

"But I must have it there for supper—I tell you, Julia, the situation became so serious there was nearly a murderous row at the fields—"

"Bother the fields," she exclaimed petulantly. "You're just like father—oil, oil, oil morning, noon and night, until I've even ordered the cook to leave any of the hateful stuff out of the cooking."

"But——"

"I might as well stay right here with an oily father as be married to an oily sweetheart," she continued quickly. "Of course, if you don't care to see what I'm planning to wear at so insignificant an affair as your wedding, I can stay right at home." She laughed a trifle bitterly and turned away from him, her hand upon the door knob. "Oh, well, what's a mere wedding in comparison with fussing round a messy grocery store for a lot of sweaty, grimy, oily men who would kill you if the food didn't happen to be cooked to their taste."

Payne laughed, despite himself, laughed, and, catching her about the whist, drew her to him, trying to coax the pretty, pouting face towards his own.

"All right," he laughingly capitulated. "But on just one condition—that we go to the grocery together."

The irresistible music of her laughter intoxicated him, and, as they swung into the car he wondered how in the world he had ever for a moment dreamed of resisting her lure. In fact, as they wandered from shop to shop that afternoon he felt more and more the hero for the manful fight he had put up against her tempestuous assaults.

THREE MONKS UNDER ARREST.

ITALIAN OFFICER SAW FLASHES FROM THEIR ROOM.

Documents and Notes Prepared by the Dominicans with Letters from Colleagues in Vienna are Found in Their Quarters—Invasion of a Monastery by the Militia.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

RARI (Italy) June 6 (via Paris, June 7, 2:55 p. m.)—Certain details of the recent arrest here of five Dominican monks, whose monastery windows look out over the Adriatic, have been made public.

An army lieutenant, noticing the flashing rays of a strong light, traced them to the monastery. The monk in charge declared there were only three monks in the building. A second monk appeared but the lieutenant could not locate the third. Finally he broke down the door of a cell and found within a monk who had a war map upon which were notations of military value.

All three monks said the upper story of the monastery was not in use. Investigation showed that on the upper floor there had been set up near a window a large reflector for signaling purposes. Here also two more monks were found. All were taken into custody.

The search of the lieutenant revealed a large number of documents and notes prepared by the monks, together with letters from colleagues in Vienna.

Under the law it is impossible for the Italian authorities to search the premises of religious institutions unless they have direct evidence of acts believed to be against the interests of the state.

AWAIT REPORT ON NEBRASKAN.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

BERLIN (via London) June 6, 11:40 p.m.—No report has been received from the submarine flotilla covering the torpedoing recently off the coast of Ireland of the American steamer Nebraskan. It is believed that all the submarines which were out at the time already have returned to their bases.

Several underwater boats were in the general vicinity where the explosion damaged the Nebraskan, but none of them has reported any attack having been made on a steamer in the place or at the time when the Nebraskan was damaged.

GERARD'S REPORT.

[BY A. P. DAY WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, June 7.—Ambassador Gerard reported today that the German Admiralty as yet had no report of the torpedoing of the American steamer Nebraskan, but was conducting an investigation. Ambassador Gerard's message was an answer to the State Department inquiry whether any report had been received from German sources. Meanwhile the department awaits also a full report of the inquiry by American naval attaches sent to Liverpool from London.

BUFORD SAILS WITH FOODSTUFFS.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

GALVESTON (Tex.) June 7.—The United States Army transport Buford sailed for Vera Cruz tonight, carrying food supplies, collected by the American Red Cross, which will be distributed in the famine-threatened sections of Mexico. Returning, the Buford will bring to the United States a number of foreign refugees, who desire to leave the southern republic. Rations sufficient for 500 people for twenty days were carried by the Buford.

VERY VIOLENT FIGHTING REPORTED BY THE FRENCH.

Attack at Hebuterne is Said to Have been Completely Successful — Efforts of the Enemy North of the Aisne Redoubled — Two Thousand Dead Germans Left on the Battlefield.

[BY ATLANTIC CABLE AND A. P.]

PARIS, June 7.—The following official communication was issued by the War Office tonight.

"In the sector to the north of Arras very violent fighting continues and we are following up our progress. There has been an artillery engagement throughout the whole day, without interruption and of a violent nature, in the Fond de Buval at Ablain, at Souchez, at Neuville and at Ecurc.

"At Neuville we continue the investment of the group of houses occupied by the enemy in the western section. At the 'Labyrinth' we have directed on the center of the work convergent attacks which are making progress and we have occupied at two points the center shelter of the position. Several counter-attacks have been repulsed.

"An attack by us to the southeast of Hebuterne has been completely successful. We carried by assault two of the enemy's lines and the Toutvent farm, taking 400 unwounded prisoners, of whom seven were officers, and capturing some machine guns, the number of which has not yet been established. Several hundred bodies of German dead were found on the ground.

"A single German counter-attack was delivered, but this was checked immediately.

"To the north of the Aisne, the foe has multiplied his desperate efforts to recapture the two lines of trenches which we took from him yesterday. After having brought up reinforcements in automobiles for a distance of eighty kilos (about fifty miles) the enemy made a furious counter-attack but was completely repulsed.

"Two thousand German killed were left on the ground. We made 250 prisoners, among whom were an artillery officer and twenty eight noncommissioned officers. We captured six machine guns and many others were found under the ruins.

"We have destroyed by melinite the three '77' pieces which fell into our hands yesterday. They were down behind the second German trench which we occupied, and it was not possible to bring them into our lines by reason of the violence of the fire.

"Between Soissons and Rheims we have cut down several local attacks and thrust them back about a hundred yards in the wood to the south of Ville-au-Bois.

"In Champagne near Mesnil, troops brought by the Germans from their second line to their first line, probably with a view to an attack, have been dispersed by our artillery.

"At Vauquois, by way of reprisal we spread flaming liquid on the trenches of the enemy, who replied with a bombardment.

"On the rest of the front there is nothing to report."

SOUTHERN PACIFIC MERGER.

Directors of Six Subsidiaries in Oregon Vote to Become Divisions of Parent Company July 1.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

PORTLAND (Or.) June 7.—Directors of six railroads in Oregon, subsidiary to the Southern Pacific Company, met here today and voted to carry out the terms of a resolution adopted by the stockholders of the parent company at a recent meeting held in Kentucky, by merging interests and identities. The six subsidiaries will be absorbed July 1 and will thereafter be known as divisions of the Southern Pacific system.

The action of the subsidiaries was formal, as all their stock was held by the Southern Pacific Company.

SEIZE WHISKY.

An Arizona Court Holds Trunks of Texan Which Are Said to Contain Intoxicating Liquors.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) June 7.—A decision holding that whisky shipped into the State may be seized by officers without search warrants was rendered today by Judge J. M. McAllister in the Superior Court at Tombstone. The court based its decision on the ground of public policy.

Two trunks filled with bottled whisky were withheld from John Sowey, the alleged owner, because of a violation of the State law in bringing the liquor from Texas. A Federal law also was violated, the court holds, in failing to label the trunks with the true contents and the name of consignee.

The Alaska Is Easy To Keep Clean

It is easy to keep an Alaska refrigerator clean and sweet because every part of the inside can be washed with a cloth wrung out of hot water.

The waste pipe is straight and, like the patent trap, is removable from the inside—a great convenience.

The trap in an Alaska can be cleaned out in a moment's time. It is made so that sediment cannot get through it to clog the drain tube.

Get a refrigerator that you can keep in perfect condition. Alaskas range from $13.50 to $125.

California Bear Float Takes Fire in Parade.

Crowd in Near-panic; Girls Narrowly Escape.

Short Circuit is Cause; One Man is Injured.

Seven girls, riding on the Native Sons' float, The California Bear, third in the electrical pageant held through the downtown district last night, had a narrow escape when a short circuit in the intricate wiring on the float caused the flimsy decorations to burst into flames as it was passing Seventh street on Broadway. The great crowd of spectators who lined the sidewalks were thrown in a panic. Quick action on the part of Police Lieutenant Butler and a score of policemen saved the fair riders and prevented serious consequences.

The only spectator, William J. Proctor, a chauffeur living at No. 1702 Alpine street, was the only person injured sufficiently to warrant a trip to the Receiving Hospital. He was slightly burned while helping the girls get off the burning float and saved part of the contents of a fire-extinguisher in his eyes.

ON THE FLOAT.

The girls riding on the Native Sons' float were Adele Dumont, Alta Constant, Ruth Chase, Doris Murray, Vira Bell, Ruth Slash, Clara Edeman, Clarice Clement, Jeanette Stranel, Elsie Mae and Helen Cain, all pupils of the School of Dramatic Arts.

The float, although the flames ate the flimsy garments of the girls Cash and Chase, being exposed only when Lieutenant Butler and his helpers applied the fire extinguisher carried in the police automobile.

Following practically the same route over which they rolled a month ago, when the floats started from Jefferson and Grand avenue shortly after 8 o'clock. The parade was marked with the two previous features, the same cheering and the same bands. Nothing marred the Native Sons' float, which passed over the car tracks meeting at Sixth street and Broadway.

Stopped spasmodically. Blue sparks shot out from the electrical current at the back of the car. Suddenly there was a flash and a blaze, and the two frightened girls atop screamed. Others shouted. On both sides of the street the crowd surged forward. Lieutenant Butler, riding in the police automobile at the head of the procession, saw the machine turned, and with a quick, scattering the people to right and left.

Those on the lower section of the float jumped off, falling into the arms of the policemen hurrying to their aid. Miss Slash and Miss Cash, sitting higher up, were less for-

ORGANIZE TO GET RECOUNT.

Whiffen Workers Allege Gross Irregularities at the Polls. Ready for Action.

Declaring that they believe T. J. Whiffen, Mayoralty candidate at the recent city election, was "read off the ticket" as a result of irregularities at the polls, former members of the Whiffen Campaign Committee organized last night a new committee to bring action for a recount of the vote.

They base their action largely on a recent report of Efficiency Director Burks, that alleged gross departure from the law governing the manner of counting and tallying ballots. It is pointed out the majority of Mayor-elect Sebastian amounts to only a few votes in each precinct, on the average, and the Whiffen forces believe the Sebastian lead is within the margin of error.

Guy Garner was made chairman of the recount committee and R. A. Collins treasurer. Frank Allen will be chief adviser and one of the attorneys for the Whiffen forces. Headquarters will be maintained in the Douglas Building. It is said definite action will be taken as soon as the attorneys can open fire.

BACHELOR'S PARADISE.

Government Installs An Old One in Forest Fire Lookout on the Tip-Top of Old Baldy.

The lookout station, perched on a peak among the spurs of Mt. Baldy, and giving the lone forestry watcher behind its glass walls a view of over sixty miles covering the San Gabriel, San Antonio and San Dimas Canyons, with a sweep of the sea as far as Catalina Island, was opened yesterday for service.

The building consists of a single room, and E. E. Cook, an old bachelor sans kith or kin, has been installed as the lookout. He will do his own cooking, and all of his eatables, including drinking water, must be brought to his eyrie on the back of a burro.

The room is 14x14, and cost the government about $300 to build, most of the expense being the carrying of the lumber up the mountain side by burros. Cook will be fitted out with a long distance glass, and it is expected that he will prove an important adjunct to the force whose chief diversion in the summer months consists in locating forest fires.

TO ARRAIGN LOTTERY MEN.

The defendants in the alleged lottery ring, W. H. H. Young, J. P. Buckley, W. E. Lower, William L. Pettit, W. A. Daniels and Larry M. Sullivan, will be arraigned before United States District Judge Bledsoe, this afternoon at 5 o'clock, at the conclusion of the day's work in connection with the Los Angeles Investment Company case. All of them with the exception of Sullivan have confessed their complicity.

EDGED POLITICS CUTS OFF EBELL.

Los Angeles Club Leaves the State Organization.

Long-threatened Action as Convention's Sequel.

Express Dissatisfaction with Federated Way.

Dissatisfaction of several years' standing with methods imputed to the California Federation of Women's Clubs culminated yesterday in an open rupture between the State organization and the Los Angeles Ebell Club and the latter formally seceded from the federated body. The vote, which followed a heated discussion, was nearly unanimous on the part of the members present.

While the action was not unexpected, having in fact been projected more than a year ago, the withdrawal caused something of a sensation in club circles, the Ebell being one of the largest clubs in the State and chiefly instrumental in the formation of the federation itself. The first meeting of the latter body was held in the Ebell clubhouse fifteen years ago and the first president, Mrs. Robert J. Burdette, was supplied by the Ebell Club.

CONVENTION'S SEQUEL.

Mrs. Chester C. Ashley, the clubs's first vice-president, was chairman of the Ebell delegation to the fourteenth annual convention of the federation held in San Francisco last month, and was the official representative of President Mrs. W. S. Bartlett in the latter's absence. In making her report to the club Mrs. Ashley admitted with frankness that the Ebell delegation had come away from the federation feeling keen disappointment. She said that less than 100 delegates had made the decisions for nearly 35,000 women at a time when, after four days, with twenty-seven speakers each day, the delegates were mentally fagged although for a year they had urged that important business be given ample time for discussion. She held that the really worth-while questions were shelved for the last morning session, with three-minute talks the rule; that there were few trained speakers, and in a hall with bad acoustics; that to vote the delegates were forced to leave the hall during a discussion of questions.

She referred especially to Mrs. Henry de Nyse of Riverside, who, she said, after months of preparation over the redistricting plan was given but a short time to discuss the important subject.

Immediately following Mrs. Ashley, Mrs. E. C. Bellows of the Ebell executive board took the platform and presented the following resolution:

THE RESOLUTION.

"For several years the successive official boards of Ebell have questioned the desirability of membership in the California Federation of Women's Clubs, but out of deference to the sentiments of some of our active workers, and members of long standing, each Executive Committee has refrained from initiating a movement for withdrawal.

"Of late it has seemed to us that the methods of work of the federation have become of increasingly doubtful propriety, and fraught with danger to the continued usefulness of the State organization.

"Our delegates to the State and district conventions have protested against indorsing a great number of resolutions, on widely varying subjects, without adequate discussion, in a hurried session after many delegates had left the convention to return home.

"The arrangement of the programmes, 'putting all important business in the last half-day; the presentation of important questions without sufficient previous notice, so that delegates have no opportunity to put their thoughts in order; the limitation of time for discussion to three minutes for each speaker; the attitude of those who present resolutions, as shown by their remarks, both in and out of the convention; all point to the same conclusion, viz., the resolutions are introduced not to create and unify public opinion through information imparted by free and thoughtful discussion, but to secure indorsements for political effect.

"These methods tend to make of the State Federation a mere machine, and paralyze its effectiveness as a body of independent, thoughtful workers.

"For us to continue to work with the federation under these conditions is impossible. Since we have failed to secure any change in methods which we believe to be utterly wrong in theory and practice, we ought not, by continuing our membership, to seem to indorse or condone them.

"I, therefore, move that the Ebell of Los Angeles sever its connection with the California Federation of Women's Clubs."

The resolution was unanimously adopted in executive session.

It will not sever the club's affiliation with the National or General Federation of Women's Clubs.

Mrs. Bellows spoke in favor of her resolution, stating that it was not introduced as the result of a petty disappointment; that the delegates had gone to the State convention many times and had their measures defeated; that this time the delegates had gone uninstructed, to work for the best interests of the Federation. She said it is a moral issue—a matter of principle; that the methods now used by the State Federation tended to disintegration, and that the history of suffrage would be a history of dishonor if a change were not wrought.

POLITICS AN ISSUE.

Mrs. W. W. Orcutt said that she did not realize that politics had really crept into the club's activities until she went to the last Federation, and she now was awake to the crisis which both Ebell and the State faced. "Let us withdraw as a protest of the influence which at present seems to

TEACHER IS FINED.

Bible Institute Instructor, Charged with Annoying Girls, Pays Dollar in Chicago Police Court.

A. M. Salcido, 44 years old, who has been employed as assistant teacher of Spanish in the Bible Institute for two years, was fined $1 in Police Court in Chicago yesterday on the charge of annoying young girls, and released, according to a dispatch received by The Times. He was arrested last Wednesday on the complaint of the mother of one of the young girls, who charged that he loitered around the home. Mr. Salcido went to Chicago as a delegate to a church convention.

Supt. Horton of the Bible Institute believes that Mr. Salcido's motives were misunderstood in Chicago and that he meant no harm. He thinks that the teacher was the victim of circumstances.

"I have not been informed of all of the facts in the case, but it is my opinion that Mr. Salcido's efforts to show kindness to children whom he met in a park were misconstrued," Supt. Horton said. "From my personal knowledge of the man I believe that he has been wronged."

AUTO BANDIT ROBS TWO, SHOOTS THIRD VICTIM.

IN LESS than half an hour an automobile bandit early last night held up and robbed two persons and shot a third through the right hip when the victim refused to give up his purse. Squads of police in automobiles searched the city, but failed to find the robber.

As Jack Franklin of No. 232 South Figueroa street and Miss Sarah Wise of the Clark Memorial Home stood talking near Crown Hill and Columbia avenues the bandit drove his machine to the curb, sprang out and, drawing a revolver, ordered the two young people to throw up their hands. He then robbed them of $32.50, taking $20.75 from Mr. Franklin. The bandit was masked with a red handkerchief.

Less than fifteen minutes later the same robber drove up to O. E. Hitibrand of No. 801 South Hope street as the latter stood at Thirty-first street and Grand avenue, and again producing the revolver, said, "Throw up your hands." Mr. Hitibrand thought it was a joke and started to walk away. The robber fired without hesitation, the bullet passing through Mr. Hitibrand's right hip. After firing the bandit jumped into his automobile and fled. The injured man was rushed to the Receiving Hospital by Sim Crabill, who was standing a short distance away at the time.

At the Receiving Hospital Mr. Hitibrand described the bandit clearly and the police are confident the same man was responsible for both hold-ups, as well as several others reported in the past few weeks.

Always working with an automobile on which the license numbers are covered, the bandit picks his victims in the downtown district and then follows them until they reach some quiet spot. Driving to the curb the robber springs from his machine and accosts his victims.

According to Mr. Hitibrand, last night he had noticed a small machine following him some distance, but paid no attention to it until it stopped and the bandit stepped out.

The bandit is described as a young man, about 5 feet 5 inches in height and dressed in dark clothes. He is masked with a red handkerchief and carries a large, blue-steel revolver.

Government's Strong Attack Opens Third Week.

In pursuance of its declared intention of proving its case principally by documentary evidence, the government yesterday raised the number of its exhibits to eighty-seven in the trial of Charles A. Elder and ten of his associates formerly connected with the management of the Los Angeles Investment Company, on the charge of conspiracy to use the mails to defraud.

The entire day's session of the United States District Court was consumed in reading articles from Homes, the monthly publication of the company, the articles having been previously identified by Bernard Burtleson of Milwaukee, Wis., a stockholder of the company, who testified he had read the articles.

Articles from Homes were read, under various dates, to the following effect:

That the gold notes constituted a first lien on the treasury and all real estate of the company. In one instance this statement was printed in black-face type.

Certificates from R. H. Morse, cashier of the Globe Savings Bank, that the guarantee fund was held by the bank and controlled by its officers and that the officers of the Los Angeles Investment Company had no control over the fund. The fact that the officers of the Globe Savings Bank and Los Angeles Investment Company were practically the same persons was not alluded to in the articles.

That the large dividends were paid entirely from profits from real estate deals, interest and building operations and not from the proceeds of the sale of stock.

That the board of directors had decided to increase the price of stock each month during the ensuing year.

That any officer of the company would give a written guarantee to a small stockholder against loss by investment in the stock.

That the company contemplated a profit of $93,000,000 from the purchase of the Baldwin tract of 3000 acres and that its wealth would rival Storekeeper Admits that His "Closing-out" Sign was Merely to Draw Trade—Must Not Move Away.

Israel Hepp was cited into court yesterday in contempt proceedings. He conducts a paint store and he was ordered not to change the location of it. When Judge Wood, who is running the divorce mill during the absence of Judge Monroe, inquired into the matter, Mr. Hepp told him his landlord raised the rent on him and he had to move.

"But haven't you been trying to sell out for some time?" queried the court. "Wasn't there a 'closing-out' sign on your place?"

"Oh, that sign," repeated Mr. Hepp. "Why, that's been there two years. A closing-out sign is a good advertisement."

EX-OFFICIAL OF STATE MARRIES.

FORMER LIEUTENANT-GOVERNOR IS BRIDEGROOM; SON OF A LOSER IN COURT.

Former Lieut.-Gov. A. J. Wallace and Miss Grace E. Hagar, a former teacher in the public schools of the city, were married at noon yesterday at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. J. M. Hagar at No. 2202 Key West avenue. The ceremony was performed by Dr. E. A. Healy, dean of the theological school of the University of Southern California.

The ceremony was witnessed by Mr. Wallace's children and immediate relatives of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace left in a motor car yesterday afternoon for San Diego, where they will be joined in a few days by his daughters, Miss Helen Wallace, 20 years old, and Katherine Wallace, 12 years old. Kenneth Wallace, eldest son of the groom, was present at the wedding. Donald Wallace, another son, who is in Harvard University, was unable to be present.

Mr. Wallace had been a widower about two years. His bride was a friend of the former Mrs. Wallace. When Mr. Wallace obtained the marriage certificate he gave his age as 62 and that of his bride as 42. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace will make their home in his handsome residence at La Canada.

Of different sort was the experience of Kenneth Wallace when ouster proceedings brought against him by the Huntington Land and Improvement Company resulted in the company winning yesterday the first round in Judge Works's court. Mr. Wallace homesteaded the property known as lot five, El Moline tract, alleging it was not included in the description when it was taken over by H. E. Huntington. The Huntington Land and Improvement Company brought suit to get young Wallace off the property.

Mr. Wallace demurred to the complaint. The court overruled the demurrer and continued the application of the company for a temporary injunction one week. Meanwhile Mr. Wallace is restrained from trespassing on the land until the question of his alleged right is determined.

LONE ORDER IN MARKET'S CHAOS

Citrus Fruit Co-operative Methods Vindicated.

Federal Trades Commission Indorses Exchange.

Prices Maintained Against Unprecedented Odds.

Asserting that the system under which nearly 70 per cent. of California's citrus crop is co-operatively marketed is both economically and legally sound, General Manager Powell of the California Fruit Growers' Exchange took issue yesterday, on his return from a month's tour of the eastern agencies, with critics of organized marketing.

"Twenty years' experience has proved the worth of our system," he said. "This year it has been proved anew, with chaos generally reigning in the fruit and vegetable fields and many crops being marketed at less than the cost of production.

"In fact, our reports show that more citrus fruit has been consumed this year than ever before, and that the returns to the producers have maintained a fair average, while of all other fruits and vegetables distributed in a speculative way, a considerable portion has either been sacrificed or the prices have not covered shipping expenses.

"To say," said Mr. Powell, "that in this day of a complex economic system, a perishable fruit crop can be sold direct from the produc.. to the consumer is to fly in the face of facts as they are. Theoretically it looks feasible, but in practice the contrary proves true. I believe that the system of co-operative marketing that our orange and lemon men have worked out is the best one that could or can be devised in the face of circumstances."

Acting on this theory, Mr. Powell's eastern trip was devoted to a study of marketing conditions as they are, with a view to the betterment of the exchange's instruments of distribution. With this end in view, he had a conference with the newly-appointed Federal Trades Commission.

"The members of this commission highly praised our system of marketing and distribution," said Mr. Powell "Nevertheless, we are always looking for perfection. I believe that next year we will sell more citrus fruit than this year, and at better prices."

While in the East Mr. Powell formulated plans for increased efficiency in several fields that will be laid before the exchange's board of directors at the next meeting for study during the coming six months. These plans contemplate both wider distribution of citrus fruits, closer co-operation between the jobbers and retailers, and wider and better advertising.

"It is only by wide distribution," said Mr. Powell, "that the consumption of the fruit can keep pace with the increased production. With this object in view, we desire to increase the number of persons handling our fruit. We also hope to increase the per capita consumption by keeping the diversified uses of the fruit before the people through judicious advertising. Already we have felt the effect of the advertising campaign that we inaugurate this year, both in increased demand and in better prices than we might otherwise have got."

Regarding marketing conditions at present, Mr. Powell stated that there has been an increasingly strong demand for oranges the past six weeks, and that he anticipates a strengthened market for lemons as soon as warm weather comes in the East.

"I saw sun but four days while I was away," said Mr. Powell. "Needless to say, the warmer the weather the bigger the demand for lemons."

PAY CASH FOR FABLED JOBS.

THIRTY RUSSIAN POLES GO TO ARIZONA; COME BACK.

Local Man Charged with Swindling Laborers with Promises of Much Easy Labor at High Wages—He Blames Another—Santa Fe Gets "Stung" on Return Trip.

Thomas F. Mack, dark and suave, said he knew about some work down in Arizona, good work in the mines, returning $4 a day. He spread the news among members of the foreign colony, and four hours later, the path to his offices carried much of the appearance of a flight from Poland.

They asked and they received. Mr. Mack had work for them, in Jerome, fine jobs, $4 a day and light work. The enthusiasm was great. But there was that detail about getting there. Mr. Mack demanded each person give him $28.65. That was for carfare, to be returned of course when the men reached the mines and reported for work, according to their complaint to the City Prosecutor yesterday.

They gave up their money, and the getting of it was a magnificent example of community finance. The Russian colony gave a grand ball and all night fiesta in honor of the good fortune that had come. The farewell was almost a ceremony, and all went, some thirty of them in the first installment.

They arrived in Jerome, and found none to receive them. They went to the mine, and were told not to obstruct the entrance to the office. When they inquired for the jobs awaiting them, they were told that all loose jobs were run to cover by a horde of waiting men out of work.

Officers of the Santa Fe railroad heard of the plight. The people of Jerome had to feed the job hunters, house them, and it looked as though the town would have to adopt them until the railroad agreed to return them to Los Angeles without cost.

As soon as they arrived here, they hastened to the City Prosecutor's office and swore to a complaint charging Mr. Mack, who had shrunk greatly in their appraisal of him, with obtaining money under false pretenses.

When Mack was arrested, he said J. Ross Clark, the railroad and mining magnate, had asked him to recruit the labor. Mr. Clark said yesterday he was informed of no such arrangement. So Mr. Mack will face trial, and the Russians who took the disastrous trip, hung around Central Police Station all day in their eagerness to testify against Mack.

DEFENSE VS. OFFENSE.

For much of the day the evidence of the prosecution and defense ran, apparently, along parallel lines, Attorney Oscar Lawler for the defense and Attorneys Rush and Schoonover for the government taking turns in reading articles from Homes extolling the company's methods and activities. Mr. Lawler evidently desired to place before the jury evidence that the company was engaged in large real estate transactions and making large profits therefrom, while the government desired to impress upon the jurors evidence of alleged misstatements in the official organ of the company.

One article published in the January (1913) issue of Homes stated that a tract purchased at $1600 per acre had brought the company $6000 to $7000 per acre. An article in the February (1913) issue and several other articles read emphasized the statement that premiums on stock sales were not used to pay dividends, but that all dividends were paid from profits on real estate deals, interest and building operations. In one of these articles it was stated that the interest received was alone almost sufficient to pay all dividend charges.

One article in the June (1913) issue related how Arthur H. Flemming made 50 per cent a year from an investment in the stock of the company.

From the issue of January, 1911, was read the article containing the statement which Mr. Rush said was the first overt act charged in the indictment tending to reveal the existence of a conspiracy. This article stated that the gold notes were a first lien of the treasury and real estate of the company.

THE JUDGE KNOWS.

In reading one of the articles containing the statement that gold notes were a first lien of the treasury and real estate, District Attorney Schoonover announced that the statement was "Double-leaded," thereby giving Judge Bledsoe opportunity to show a familiarity with printers' terms.

"What do you mean by double-leaded?" asked His Honor.

"Well," responded Mr. Schoonover, "it is printed in black type."

"That is black-face," said the judge. "Double leaded refers to the space between the lines." Mr. Schoonover stood corrected.

In the issue of Homes for December, 1911, an article was read headed "Guarantee fund passes the $100,000 mark." In the same issue appeared the statement that a stockholder could purchase 500 shares and under and resell to the guarantee fund after only a week, if he desired, without loss. That the Globe Savings Bank held a fund of $100,000 solely to protect small stockholders and that bank had sole control of the fund, was the statement contained in an article of the May, 1912, issue. In the issue of June, 1912, R. H. Morse, cashier of the bank issued a statement that the bank held a fund of $117,131 for this purpose, the management of which rested solely with the officers of the bank. In August, 1912, it was stated that the fund had increased to $161,099.55, or $104,000 for the year.

In the issue of January, 1913, the statement was made that the officers of the company would give a written guarantee to small stockholders against loss, thus providing a double security. In August, 1912, it was published that the guarantee fund had been enlarged by a donation of $5000 from "an old stockholder." It was stated in the issue of May, 1910, in response to an inquiry, that, after the company had ceased selling stock the guarantee fund would remain as a trust fund as long as any stock was outstanding.

"MILLION A YEAR."

"Dividends at the rate of $1,000,000 per year for stockholders," was the title of an article in the August, 1913, issue.

That the company could not buy or deal in its stock was a statement made in Homes of October, 1913, and in the issue of January, 1912, it was stated, and repeated in a number of other issues, that the officers of the company could only purchase stock on the same terms as outsiders.

Attorney Lawlor for the defense brought out on cross examination of the witness Bertleson, what Attorney Rush characterized as the Utopian dream of the former management of the company in connection with the development of the Baldwin tract, but which Attorney Lawlor insisted would have been carried to completion if the government had not interfered. In this article the statements were in effect as follows:

The Baldwin purchase consisted of approximatey 3600 acres bought for $2000 an acre or a total of about $7,000,000. The property was to be divided into 30,000 lots and built up with 900 miles of homes to be sold for a total of $100,000,000, making a profit for the company, of $93,000,000. This, the article stated, would make the Los Angeles Investment Company, with its previous holdings of 3000 acres, richer than many principalities of Europe. The Baldwin property was recently taken from the company on a mortgage foreclosure, the company losing $2,400,000 on the transaction.

The trial will be resumed this morning at 10 o'clock.

XMAS DINNER TO BE YEAR OLDER.

SQUABBLE OVER TURKEYS STILL GOING ON; ONE FALSE ARREST.

A. Quantarro bought two turkeys three days before last Christmas. He was to have eaten them for his Christmas dinner, but just about the time he was ready to wield the ax the police stepped in and arrested him for stealing them.

Joe Despart charges that Quantarro stole the turkeys, and with Quantarro to the Police Station went the two birds. It so happened that Quantarro proved in Police Court he had purchased the birds from a butcher and the butcher so testified.

Despart proved that Quantarro went to his place and looked at the two turkeys, but did not buy them. The following morning the birds were gone and Despart was immediately suspicious of Quantarro.

Quantarro didn't get his Christmas turkeys until yesterday. After his arrest and release by the police he discovered that the police were so sure he had stolen the birds they were turned over to Despart. Even after he had proved his innocence he tried to recover the turkeys, but Despart refused to deliver them.

Quantarro brought suit in replevin for the fowls and yesterday Justice Summerfield agreed with Quantarro that he hadn't stolen the turkeys. He issued an order requiring Despart to turn them over.

Quantarro will now feed the birds up and have them for his Christmas dinner, one year late.

STOPS ONE LEAK.

Graft at the County Farm is Given Jolt by the Superintendent—Big Saving Results.

Why pay hundreds of dollars each month for milk and cream for the County Hospital when county employees take more than enough of each from the County Farm and waste it?

This question was submitted to the Board of Supervisors yesterday by M. R. Martin, superintendent of county charities. He discovered that employees who draw part of their pay in "maintenance" have been taking milk and cream from the commissary and throwing more than half of it away. One family, he discovered, used two quarts of milk and two quarts of cream each day. There are only two members in the family.

By shutting off this palpable graft, Mr. Martin caused a saving of $60 a month to the county.

Other and similar leaks are being discovered by Supt. Martin, who is making an investigation of the county charity organization and allied work.

PLUCKY RESCUE.

At this juncture Prochaska leaped to the rescue. Butler and his officers were working desperately with the flames. Prochaska grabbed the burning streamers on the girl's dress and started to beat the flames with his bare hands. A policeman, seeing the fire, turned his extinguisher on Prochaska and the girl, wetting the chauffeur hero thoroughly.

When the excitement had died down the eleven girls were transferred to other floats and borne back to the disbanding place at Jefferson street and Grand avenue.

The excitement caused in the throng of spectators was greater than that experienced by the girls. Not until the entire parade of fifteen floats had passed did the nervous strain let down. Several women in the crowd were on the verge of hysterics.

The Native Son float was burned badly. The entire outside decorations were destroyed. Only the charred body of the once beautiful creation remains. It was taken to the barn.

OVER CARLSON PROJECT.

Eastern Man Enters Suit Involving Title to Lots in Redondo Villa Tracts.

An action was brought in the United States District Court yesterday by Justin E. Cook of Independence, Iowa, against Edward C. Aspelman and about 150 other defendants, praying that the title of the complainant be quieted as to what is known as Redondo Villa Tracts Nos. 2 and 3.

It is alleged that in 1906 Cook entered a contract, under the provision of which the Los Angeles Securities Company, a corporation backed by the former banker William Carlson of this city, was to pay $65,000 for the property. It is alleged that the company defaulted on the principal payments and interest, but in the meantime had sold a number of the lots under contract, the purchasers being made parties defendant in the action.

The defendants claim some right and title to the lots they agreed to purchase, and the prayer of the petition is that they be required to come into court and set out such interest, if any; that they be adjudged to have no right and title to the property.

The Redondo Villa real estate project was one of the pet enterprises of Carlson.

Militants.

GIRLS TOO LOUD FOR THE JAILER.

HOW TO QUIET NOISE-MAKERS SERIOUS PROBLEM.

Shout Their Way Out of Juvenile Hall and into County Jail—Keeper Now Praying Court for Peace. Hunger Strike New Threat of Unruly Misses.

The militants in London went on hunger strikes and so got out of jail. But two healthy girls, like Jessie Ridley, 17, and Selma Potwin, 18, have lively appetites and as starving is repugnant to them, they went on another tack. Captured on the Mexican border, where they had ridden on motorcycles from their homes in this city, they got out of the County Jail at San Diego because one swallowed a handful of pins and the other took poison.

They were sent to Juvenile Hall in this city and they introduced fifty-seven varieties of noise. It was believed incarceration in the County Jail would have a sobering effect, and there they were taken, but they improved on the fifty-seven varieties and Jailer Gallagher frantically appealed to Judge Reeve of the Juvenile Court.

Now here was a problem. If the County Jail and Juvenile Hall could not shelter the girls in peace and order, what chance had any other institution?

"Take 'em away," pleaded Jailer Gallagher. "They shout and they sing and they laugh; it incited the other prisoners and the uproar was general. The dungeon quieted 'em for a time, but they broke out again when they were taken back to the cells."

"I'll see what I can do," replied Judge Reeve. "Whittier ought to hold them."

The girls say:

"It don't make any difference where you put us; if it comes to a show down we can be militants and starve."

IMPERSONATION ALLEGED.

A jury in Judge Trippet's court is hearing the evidence in the case of Larry Ginther and J. A. Rinkhoff, who are jointly charged with securing $10 from Mrs. S. J. Farnum of this city at the Waldo Hotel by representing themselves as government officers engaged in secret work in connection with prosecutions under the Mann White Slave Act. The men were arrested at Claremont, Ginther first being taken into custody. The same day, the evidence shows, Rinkhoff sent the woman $5 to apply on their account after he found out they were wanted for false representation.

SCHOOL DUTIES CLOSE; NEW CONTESTANTS START.

Boys and Girls See Their Opportunity to Begin in "The Times" Educational Contest and Quickly Forge Ahead in Voting Score — Chance Right Now to Win Money Rewards.

SCHOOL work is closed in various country districts and some of the smaller towns and cities of Southern California. The close of the school year is drawing near in the high places. This leaves the boys and girls free to devote much more of their time to The Times Education-al Contest.

Results in the campaign are com-ing in from various sources. This will continue, as the boys and girls are quick to see that they can start in right now and quickly find for themselves a place among the winners when the final count is made.

Paul Walters of No. 122 Breeze avenue, Venice, is another new boy in the contest, who will show a vote score next Thursday. He will soon be free from school duties and will then make things hum at the beach towns in his efforts to quickly reach the head of the list.

Miss Laura Belle Ormon, the San Fernando Valley girl, who has been making a notable campaign, keeps up her good work right along, and yesterday turned in a showing to

The Family Trebaol—just thirteen children—count 'em.

Pierre, head of the line, is a worker in The Times Educational Contest, and the others are his brothers and sisters. A fine corps to aid him in his determination to win a Times scholarship and one of the extra cash re-wards.

count on the race for the extra cash prizes. Miss Ormon watches for all opportunities to increase her vote count. She made the opening of the famous Topango Canyon scenic route an occasion to meet many people and win subscription contracts. She has visited various San Fernando Valley towns and will find a ready welcome when she gets ready to work in Los Angeles.

FINE BUSINESS COURSES.

Scholarships in the California Brownsberger Commercial College, of-fered in The Times Educational Con-test, are standard—they count just as do staples in commercial life. No wonder the attention of many of the contestants is directed to these oppor-tunities.

The new home of the California Brownsberger Commercial College is the centrally-located and fireproof Knickerbocker Building, No. 643 Olive street. While within a few moments' walk of city and interurban car lines, it is not on a car line, and therefore has not the distracting noise of street cars and heavy traffic.

Educating thousands of students for business pursuits, and placing them in good business posi-tions, has taught the managers of the California Brownsberger Commercial College what the business man wants and what the student needs in order to secure a successful business edu-cation.

The school provides a business course, shorthand and typewriting course and the full commercial course, and recently there has been added a course in salesmanship and advertising.

Business Course—Book-keeping (by single and double entry,) business practice, corporation, banking, com-mission, wholesale, retail and office practice. Correspondence, arithmetic, rapid calculations, business English, penmanship, commercial law, practi-cal spelling, business forms and cus-toms.

Shorthand and Typewriting Course—Shorthand, touch typewriting, cor-respondence and business English, practical spelling, penmanship, busi-ness forms and customs, letter filing, indexing, multigraphing, copying, etc.

The Full Commercial Course—Com-bines the principal features of both the above courses, and it is un-doubtedly the best course for every student to take, as it enables him to command a better position, better pay and more rapid advancement.

Model Office—This school has with-out doubt the best and most complete-ly-equipped model office department in the Southwest. After finishing the regular course of instruction and practice, the student is advanced to this department, where he is taught how to handle accurately and rapidly the multigraph, mimeograph, dupli-cating machine, adding machine and to take dictation from the dictaphone and from business men who desire their letters produced with accuracy and dispatch. This finishing depart-ment is kept quite busy getting out all kinds of office work, and as a result the student finds it but an easy step from the school to the office. This brings him to the final and most in-teresting phase of the commercial course, namely, a position, which the school stands ready and willing to se-cure for him through its free employ-ment bureau.

The school gives the most careful and prompt attention to calls from business houses for stenographers, book-keepers, clerks and office help in general, and as a result always has more calls for help than it can sup-ply. It never recommends a student for a position unless he is qualified to fill it, and this practice will be con-tinued. If at any time any of its stu-dents honorably loses his position, it stands ready to help him get another, and make no charge for this service to either employer or student.

The Teachers—For the past fifteen years the manager of this school has been engaged in the business of se-lecting and training teachers for com-mercial college work, and can, there-fore, give every assurance to pros-pective students that none but the best will be employed. The teachers are thoroughly educated, specially trained, experienced, tactful and en-ergetic, always alert to see that the students get the best, most approved and up-to-date instruction in every department. A specialty is made of individual instruction, and conse-quently the school can be of great assistance to students whose lack of general training calls for such atten-tion. This plan also enables the bright, energetic students to progress as rapidly as consistent with doing high-grade work.

The California Brownsberger Com-mercial College stands for quality first of all. It declines to consider as students young children who seek pastime. It is for earnest men and women who wish to make thorough preparation for the serious business of life. For such students this school has no superior East or West. It has recently added salesmanship, adver-tising and Spanish to its courses. These subjects are taught in a most thorough manner, and practice is given in the actual use of the theories learned. In fact, the salesmanship is really conducted on the laboratory plan. While text-books are used, yet the emphasis is placed upon actual work in the field.

Here is what the Rev. Charles Edward Locke, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Los Angeles, says about "Baby Bonds:"

"I wish to cordially endorse the plan of purchasing First Mortgage Bonds in $100 denominations, as adopted by the Bankers' Bond and Mortgage Company of Los Angeles.

"This is to be highly commended because it encourages the saving of small amounts and provides an absolute security.

"Any financial institution which is carrying forward a plan to assist people in forming the habit of saving a part of their earnings is rendering a fine service to the community."

A small payment and $5 or $10 monthly buys a 6 per cent. bond, and every payment will draw 6 per cent. from the time it is made. Why not become a homeowner? Send TO-DAY for booklet, "How Many Grows." It will interest you.

TREND OF THE FINANCIAL NEWS.

CHIEF EVENTS OF YESTERDAY.

(At Home:) An additional $5,000,000 in gold came in from Ottawa for British account, making $55,000,000 from the same source since January 1. Speculative interest in "war" specialties and other equipment stocks was keen, many shares touching their best prices of the year. The successful dissolution of Amalgamated Copper induced a strong tone in that metal, 19½ cents being quoted for spot. While our export trade, of all kinds, shows an enormous increase, that of manufactured goods, exclusive of foodstuffs and war material, is not up to last year's mark for this period, but is showing a steady increase.

(Abroad:) England's exports for May fell off $15,000,000, while her imports for the same month increased $55,000,000, principally from the United States.

(For details see financial pages.)

GETTING OVER.

Work honestly and take no fool chances. The difference between legitimate business speculation and a wild-cat scheme is exactly the difference between fact and fiction.

ALWAYS SOMETHING ELSE.

The cosmic brain has not appeared yet because nature has never concluded the divergencies of creation. The minute you think you know it all something you never counted on is bound to pop up.

TOO PERSONAL.

Villa is probably no saint, but when it comes to the settlement of affairs in Mexico the stupid charge that he is a murderer because he shot the man who betrayed his sister would hardly be taken into account.

LIGHT BETWEEN.

Nobody stands still in his loves and his friendships. You like people better every time you see them or else they wear on you. When there is nothing but like between you the growth of the affections is assured.

NEVER EARNED.

The good God must look ahead and see that a man's intentions are to be honorable in the next incarnation, for certainly no man ever did anything in this life to merit the sweetness of his wife and the love of his children.

SHOWERS OF BLESSING.

The habit of blessing people would be much easier and nicer for all concerned than the waste of malevolence in swearing at them. There must be virtue in the benediction or a perverse humanity would not go so far out of its way to excite itself with curses.

FOLLOW SUIT OR TRUMP.

Don't be stubborn. What the other fellow does should make a difference in your next move, no matter what you intended doing before that time. Discard your theories and intentions just as often as some new condition demands it. Don't evade facts: meet them.

ALMOST HUMAN.

The little canary that escaped its cage at San Francisco and came back two months later very much worse for wear is not unlike a great many restless mortals who have to leave the best things in the world before they have sense enough to know how good their natural state was.

WHEN RED IS BLACK.

The flush of health and that which is hectic—these two always in evidence, one dissimulating the other; one the starting point of all good, the other the beginning of the end; the apple red with its ripeness and the apple tinged with decay. When you look for color be sure of your tone. That girl may have blood in her cheeks or she may have paint on them. Your big idea may be soundness itself and again you may only have a mild fever.

NO BED OF ROSES.

Francis L. Sellew has resigned from the Yuma project after serving that reclamation scheme for nine years as chief engineer. The Laguna dam was originally outlined by Park Commissioner Lippincott of Los Angeles, and his plans were executed by Mr. Sellew. The biggest service Sellew performed, however, was not the construction of the dam, but keeping peace between the government and the farmers of Yuma Valley until the scheme could be carried through. Any man who can pacify a horde of water-starved farmers for nine years is entitled to a crown of immortelles, and this is not saying that Yuma farmers are worse than those of any other country.

BUNCOED.

The Times has no sympathy for gentlemen from the rural districts who are buncoed out of their money by the race-track game, the shell game or the gold-brick game. Each of these victims is engaged in an effort to obtain, by a crooked process, money which belongs to somebody else, and when the amateur scoundrel is robbed by the experienced scoundrel he gets what he thoroughly deserves.

Neither should tears be shed for the unwary man who is a victim of the badger game. He supposes that he is placating the wounded feelings of a husband whom he has injured—or was about to injure—when in fact he hasn't injured anybody's husband, not a little bit.

HOW NONPARTISANSHIP WORKS.

When a case is called on appeal to the Supreme Court of the State or nation the arguments of opposing counsel are always reinforced by citations of decisions in similar cases by courts of other States or countries. California's nonpartisan law is about to be appealed to the court of last resort, through the medium of the referendum; but it is interesting to note that in the editorial briefs of its newspaper proponents there is no reference to the results in other places where the abolishment of stable political parties has been accomplished. In a court of law this absence of citations is always ominous; it means that either the action is so novel that there are no analogous cases in the reports, or that the opinions in the other cases are unfavorable.

Probably the most striking instance of a nonpartisan form of government is that of the republic of France. England has the great Liberal and Unionist parties, representing a conflict of ideas and each supporting a relatively fixed policy, just as we have the Republican and Democratic parties in the United States. But in France the political parties are aptly described by M. Ponsot, a leading member of the French Chamber of Deputies, as "In appearance innumerable, in variety as infinite as the shades of the primary colors. They arise, maneuver and dissolve with the rapidity of morning mists; and when they vanish no man can say from whence they have come or whither they have gone, nor, indeed, what they accomplished in their brief existence."

This condition has existed in France for about thirty years; it is an outgrowth of the disturbed conditions following the close of the Franco-Prussian war. The confusion reached its height in 1910, when M. Clemenceau exclaimed in despair: "We are in the midst of our own incoherence." Since then there have been evidences of a return to sanity. But at the time of the overthrow of the Barthou Ministry in 1913 no less than ten separate political organizations took part in the division.

Charles Benoist, leading French writer and critic, member of the Academy of Moral Science, registered his protest against the existing nonpartisanship in the Revue des Deux Mondes in the following terms:

"The election today is a kind of public brigandage; there are committees that capture a seat as bandits formerly captured a stage. Little by little politics has been abandoned to the politicians. There intervenes between what one calls the political world and the nation, honest and sane, a wall of contempt. It is this wall which must be beaten down; politics must be retaken from the politicians. We must reinterest the nation; the adventurers must be driven out. In forcing it from the monopoly of the committees each one must take his place. Then it may not yet be time to take the lyre and sing hymns, but we may be permitted at least to commence to speak of the dignity and the sincerity of republican government."

That reference to the manner in which certain districts are carried and to the monopoly of the committees reads very much like a criticism of contemporary politics in California.

Emile Faguet, author and statesman, one of the most brilliant members of the noted Academy of Sciences, became so disgusted with the degradation of French politics and the consequent domination by a cabal of labor leaders and Socialists through a federation of governthe situation entitled, "The Cult of Incompetence." He observes that: "Any moderate, clear-headed, practical man who wants to be elected and make use of his powers has to start by dissembling his moderation and by making a noisy display of assumed violence. If a man wants to be nominated to a place where it will be his business to defend and protect the public security he has to begin by advocating civil war; to become a peacemaker he must first pose as a rebel . . . The people always elect men swayed by real or simulated passion. . . . The vast majority of men rush into politics in place of studying them with deliberation, judgment and wisdom. The canons of good government are entirely subverted, the law no longer sustains and controls the passions of the populace. Legislation becomes little more than the expression of their frenzy, a series of measures leveled by one coalition against the other. The introduction of a bill is a challenge, the passage of an act is a victory, definitions that at once damn the legislator and convict the system."

This is the condition of servitude from which France is seeking to escape, the condition to which we have been condemned by a nonpartisan coalition in the State Legislature.

It is well to remember in reading these commentaries that it is the nonpartisan system of France that has given birth to both Socialism and syndicalism, and that these precocious twins formed a trading coalition in 1906 that narrowly missed capturing control of the French Chamber of Deputies. Mr. A. P. Whyte, an English writer, comments: "In his speeches M. Caillaux made great play on the grave increase in expenditure for war, but the figures tell another tale. In ten years French expenditure has risen by $300,000,000, of which war expenditure amounted to $110,000,000 and increases in domestic outlay $190,000,000, a large part of which has disappeared in the spendthrift and corrupting policy of department doles. Indeed it is not too much to say that one-half of the present deficit is due to unnecessary expenditure on works of various kinds in districts whose good will the government desires to secure."

It is to marvel how apt a pupil is this nonpartisan government of ours! Inset the word "education" for "war" and the above is equally true in a proportionate degree of our "Progressive" finances in California. Of course the "Progressive" apologists will reply to this that we are still to have national parties in California and that nonpartisanship applies only to State offices. But we must remember that the State of California comparés favorably in area and is in a fair way to compare equally favorably in population with the republic of France. California is a democracy within a republic; and a principle of mathematical physics to which classification political economy belongs, is that which is true of the whole is proportionately true of the aliquot parts. It may be but a step to nonpartisanship in State affairs, but it is a step backwards.

Feels Like Getting In.

PAN-AMERICAN SOLIDARITY.

John Barrett at the Pan-American conference gave voice to favorable estimation of it when he said:

"This gathering is the inevitable climax of a great present-day Pan-American movement which is a natural and logical evolution of world conditions of the hour. The whole Western Hemisphere is in sympathy with it; and the entire world is watching. Its results will not affect America alone, but Europe and even Asia. It is not in any sense a movement antagonistic to the Old World, and yet the Old World is largely responsible for it."

If there is an American silver lining to the European war cloud it is the development of Pan-American solidarity. No great historical event since the declaration of the Monroe doctrine in 1823 has done more to awaken the governments and peoples of both North and South America to a true appreciation of their common interests. Never before have the press and the people of each and all of the American nations said so many sympathetic and kind things of each other as they are now doing.

The measure of the success of the conference will be the actual good it accomplishes for every republic participating. Practical rather than sentimental Pan-Americanism should be its chief characteristic.

The Panama Canal opens to Californians the Atlantic Coast of South and Central American countries, and a new and enormous trade between them and us is certain to be established in the near future unless obstructed by injudicious legislation at Washington.

Dr. Samuel Hale Pearson, the Buenos Aires banker, who heads the Argentine delegation to the Pan-American conference, finds that the United States navigation laws and the new seamen's law are a bar to the carrying out of his plan for providing steamships in the South American trade by an expansion of the facilities of the United Fruit Company and other companies now doing a transportation business with Central America.

President Wilson, who obstinately insisted upon the passage of the seamen's law, which has compelled the Pacific Mail Company to announce its purpose to retire its ships after November 1, delivered an address of welcome to the Pan-American conference in which he said: "One of the main things in our way is the physical lack of means of communication, the lack of vehicles, the lack of ships and established routes of trade. I am perfectly clear in my own mind that if private capital cannot enter soon upon the adventure of establishing these means of communication the government must undertake to do so."

President Wilson seems to be constitutionally incapable of accepting defeat of any policy or measure he has once espoused, and his speech before the Pan-American conference indicates that he is obstinately wedded to the ship-purchasing bill and will endeavor to secure its passage by Congress next winter.

The ship-purchasing bill was defeated by the patriotic filibustering of the Republican and a few Democratic Senators in Congress, partly because it was believed that the government would purchase and use in government would purchase and use in serious foreign complications, and partly because private owners of ships regarded with dismay and indignation the prospect of having the United States as a competitor in the carrying trade.

Ever since the close of the Civil War we have talked and talked about the lamentable decay of our mercantile marine and discussed plans of restoring it to the place it occupied in the world before Sumter was fired upon. The talk was fruitless because the only practicable method of upbuilding our shipping interests was to follow the method adopted by Great Britain and subsidize our merchant ships. This Congress would not do.

One of the plans which met with favor was to give a drawback of 5 per cent. on the customs duties of all goods imported in American ships. This, although not a direct money subsidy to ships, was an inducement to importers and foreign manufacturers to patronize American ships for the transportation of goods. The scheme was a failure for that purpose, for the measure was drawn with such painstaking asininity that the customs court decided that the 5 per cent. rebate must be paid to importers of goods in ships of any country with which the United States had a treaty containing the "most-favored-nation" clause. As such a clause is in our treaties with nearly all the powers of earth the law in question simply amounted to a free-trade measure that costs us about $20,000,000 per annum and does not add a vessel to our mercantile marine.

To make of the United States a common carrier of freight and passengers on the high seas would not "restore" our mercantile marine; it would extirpate what remains of it. It is to be hoped that attention to the serious complications in which we may possibly be involved by the European war will induce President Wilson to abandon his unwise and obnoxious ship-purchasing law.

We are not, however, bereft of hope for the establishment of Pan-American commercial intercourse. Since the South American nations are unable financially to build ships and the new seamen's law discourages American capitalists from investing money either in the building of vessels or their purchase from citizens of neutral nations and transfer to American registry, there is one other course open to us. It is for American capitalists to build ships in Argentina and sail them under the Argentine flag.

THE NEW BAGGAGE LAW.

Under the Cummins act, which went into operation June 3, persons checking trunks at railroad stations will be obliged to declare the value of their contents. The Cummins act holds the railroads to unlimited liability. The railroads will assume liability to the extent of $100, and for insuring all values in excess of $100 will charge one tenth of 1 per cent., or 10 cents on each $100.

One of the objections to the new system is the temptation and the opportunity for pillage it offers to train robbers and to thieving train officials. A trunk, for instance, is insured for $1000. Would not that tempt a dishonest baggage master to open it? Would it not induce train robbers to break it open?

RIPPLING RHYMES.

DOING ONE'S BEST.

One sweetly solemn thought comes to me every night; I at my task have wrought and tried to do it right. No doubt my work is punk, my efforts are a jest; however poor my junk, it represents my best. If you, at close of day, when sounds the quitting bell, that truthfully can say, you're doing pretty well. Some beat you galley west and bear away the prize, but you have done your best—in that the honor lies. And, having done your best, your conscience doesn't hurt; serene you go to rest in your long muslin shirt. And at the close of life, when you have said good-by to cousin, aunt and wife, and all the children nigh, you'll face the river cold that flows to isfands blest, with courage high and bold, if you have done your best. No craven fears you'll know, no terrors fierce and sharp, but like a prince you'll go, to draw your crown and harp. So then, whate'er the field in which you do your stunt, whatever tool you wield to earn your share of blunt, toil on with eager zest, nor falter in that plan; the one who does his best is God's blue ribbon man.

OUR TRADE WITH SOUTH AMERICA.

[CONTRIBUTED TO THE TIMES]
BY ROLAND G. USHER,
Author of "Pan-Germanism," "Pan-Americanism."

MR. VANDERLIP, the eminent banker, in his recent speeches before the Pan-American Conference at Washington, has dwelt upon the necessity of better financial relations with South America as the necessary steps for the extension of American trade there. It was not his purpose, however, to deal with a widespread notion that the United States can monopolize the trade of South America, or secure at least the lion's share of it. It is far truer to say that no country can monopolize the trade of any other country, and that we lack the fundamental economic requirements for obtaining even the lion's share of the trade of South America.

It is so easy to forget what is involved in monopolizing the trade of any country. We should be compelled, first, to buy practically the entire output of all the South American countries. We should be compelled in the next place to be ready to sell them everything they need to buy in exchange. Nor is this by any means all; we must be ready to buy and sell at rates advantageous to them as well as to ourselves, or the trade will not possess any economic basis. Practically, this means that we must utilize ourselves the vast bulk of what we buy from them, and must make ourselves the great bulk of what we sell to them.

We should also be ready to lend to them as much capital as they wish to borrow at better rates than they can secure in Europe. For our intercourse with them we ought not to be dependent upon other nations at all; which means nothing less than that the facilities for transportation between the United States and South America ought to be as cheap and as rapid as those with Europe. As for banking, currency, rates of exchange, credit and deferred payments, the conditions between the countries ought literally to make trade with us easier, quicker and more profitable than trade with Europe.

Anyone who has followed the reports of the Pan-American Conference will see plainly that the lack of these requisites is the very reason why that conference has been called. While not the most serious, the most obvious of our difficulties have been a lack of banking facilities and of transportation. All the great foreign banks maintain a chain of branch banks throughout South America by means of which their merchants carry on direct trade at the minimum of expense and a maximum of ease. Most of the great English and German commercial houses maintain a chain of branches in South America which do business direct with the South Americans. We possess neither. Indeed, it may be said that the present conference is to initiate a chain of American banks and to encourage branch houses. That, indeed, is the first step. The next will be better transportation. The American steamers are slow and small and the freight rates comparatively more expensive than from Europe. This much is perfectly feasible and will no doubt be consummated within a short time.

But we must not delude ourselves into supposing that this conference believes it can solve the fundamental obstacles in the way of a rapid or wide extension of trade with South America. The exports of those countries are for the most part crude produce, of which, with some exceptions, we can use only a relatively small amount. The world's capacity to utilize these staple products is obviously greater than ours ever will be. We already use large amounts and can increase only slowly our capacity for consumption. Here is obstacle number one. We cannot buy the whole or even the bulk of what they have to sell and utilize it ourselves.

In the next place we do not produce many of the articles which they wish to buy, not so much because we are unable to produce them as because we have been busy with other tasks, and are already able to send back to them an amount of goods equal in value to what we can purchase. In the long run it will not make so very much difference what our capacity to make is, because we can never profitably sell to them a greater amount than the total of their produce which we can profitably use in exchange. We ought not to sell them more than they can pay for. Here is obstacle number two.

We are also deficient in the supply of capital which will be needed to develop South America in the near future. They can grow as fast as the amount of capital they can continue to obtain, and have not yet failed to absorb an almost unlimited amount. We have a great deal of capital to loan, but compared to the European supply ours is small. Besides, as we need very large amounts of capital to develop our own country the demand here is abnormally great and provides so good a market for our own capital, and draws so heavily on Europe, that the price of money is high here compared to the rates in London. We simply cannot afford to loan money to South America at rates as advantageous for them as they can ordinarily procure in London, Paris or Berlin. There the domestic opportunities are not as numerous and more investors are compelled to seek foreign fields. They are, therefore, anxious for opportunities.

It should be apparent that, great as our opportunities in South America are, we shall not soon conquer these three fundamental difficulties and become able to monopolize their trade. The normal economic factors of the situation make trade more profitable for them with Europe than with us. There are, of course, many exceptions to these general statements. Some lines we control; some countries already buy the bulk of their goods from us; some individual merchants compete successfully with foreign houses; but on the whole this is the situation at present.

Fanning a Weary Plowman.

[Topeka Journal:] The following letter, being circulated by a well-known patent concern in this State, explains itself:

"Gentlemen: Would you care to examine into the merits of a fan attachment adapted to be used in connection with a walking plow?

"The object of the invention is to provide a plow with an adjustment vibrating fan which is actuated as the plow is carried through the field to operate a fan in front of the face of the person guiding the plow.

"The invention is of a simple and durable construction, is the property of a client of ours, and is protected by a pending U. S. application. If interested we shall be pleased to submit a specification and drawing."

The next great invention should be an automobile plow which will allow the farmer to play poker in the shade of the old apple tree or go to a picture show while his plow is running itself.

PRELIMINARIES IN BIG LAND SUITS DISPOSED OF.

Federal Judge Refuses to Dismiss Complaint on Request of Espee in Actions Brought Against It by Government—Fortune on Fortune Involved.

In a decision rendered by Judge Bledsoe in the United States District Court yesterday the preliminaries were disposed of in all the land suits brought by the government against the Southern Pacific with the exception of three in which appeals have been taken on rulings of United States District Judge Dooling.

The case just decided involves five suits, where the allegations and the issues are similar. Judge Bledsoe denied the prayer of the defendant corporation to dismiss, to strike out and to make more certain and definite the complaint. At the same time he indicated that the bill on the part of the government might have been better drawn.

The original bill was filed in December, 1911, and later amended under a ruling of Judge Dooling. Then a motion was made to dismiss the amended bill, and this was partly argued before Judge Bledsoe in Fresno last June.

The value of the property involved in the complaint aggregates $250,000,000, and the aggregate value of land in all the suits brought by the government is in the neighborhood of $400,000,000. The land in the initial suit is San Joaquin Valley, patented to the Southern Pacific in 1894, under the grant that gave the road each alternate section of land, excepting all mineral with the exception of iron and coal.

The court says that there is no inequity in the bill of complaint with respect to the relief which is asked, nor the ground upon which such relief is based. The case now comes before the court merely upon the assertions of the government with respect to matters of fact, which it is alleged it can prove. In the event that it fails the case must fail. It must be assumed, the court declares, that the government is acting in good faith in the prosecution of the suits.

In denying against the Southern Pacific, Judge Bledsoe says: "I have considered all of the motions to strike out and to make more certain, and will state generally that some of them, in my opinion, require affirmative action on the part of the court, or justify further motion. In each case the motions to dismiss, strike out and make more definite and certain are denied."

The cases are perhaps the most voluminous of any recent litigation in the history of the local Federal Court. The complaint covered 136 pages of print, and the briefs consisted of hundreds of pages of argument in behalf of the government and the defendant corporation.

With the disposition of the pending motions an appeal from Judge Dooling's ruling, whereby the appointment of referees in three case, the long-drawn-out litigation on the part of the government covering hundreds of thousands of acres of land, estimated to be worth hundreds of millions of dollars, will be brought to the attention of the local Federal Court on questions of fact. There is nobody conversant with the case or series of cases, just enough to even guess when that end will be.

SHEPARD TO APPEAL.

Convicted of smuggling opium into the country and sentenced by Judge Quantin, will appeal his case to the Circuit Court of Appeal on alleged irregularities in the charge of the Judge. The court signed the bill in error yesterday. The counsel for Shepard, A. C. Brown, is now serving his time. The date for the trial of Henry and Helen Lee, alleged opium smugglers, was set by Judge Trippet's court, yesterday for September 2. Mrs. Fauser is out on bail, but the sureties for her bond surrendered him a few days ago, and he is in the County Jail. It was the arrest of the Fauser crowd that brought the downfall of the ring.

Edged Politics.

dominate State politics," emphatically declared Mrs. Orcutt.

Mrs. Lou V. Chapin spoke against secession, declaring that "the Federation is our child, and if it goes wrong we should not desert it because it doesn't do as we want; that no effective protest was ever made yet by taking our doll rags and going home.'"

Mrs. Josiah Evans Cowles made a strong plea for the club to stay in the Federation. She told feelingly how the Ebell Club had always been identified with the State Federation, but that unrest was everywhere, and that she thought the club could wield more power inside the Federation than out. Mrs. L. A. Gould also spoke in favor of the Federation affiliation.

Mrs. William L. Jones, past president of Ebell, at present one of the Executive Board, displayed a yellow card which she said was circulated on the train going up to the convention, with "Vote no on the constitution and bylaws revision."

"It is the unanimous opinion of the Executive Board that we can better conditions by withdrawing. The time is now," she said.

Mrs. Thomas N. Newell and Madam Ada Van Pelt opposed the withdrawal, the latter saying she had been involved in a secession fifty years ago, and was opposed from a former experience. Mrs. Swain also spoke briefly.

TAKES RESPONSIBILITY.

Mrs. Ashley was called to the chair, and the president, Mrs. W. S. Bartlett, took the floor. "I take the responsibility—I started this work," she quietly said.

"I have observed the Federation for a long time, and Ebell would be wise to withdraw. We are not in the game that belongs to Ebell; we are not in sympathy with, and therefore not useful in the present organization; repeatedly has Ebell tried to get a hearing and borne personal slights in silence for several years, and the only sense of irritation Ebell has ever endured has come through the Federation work. Ebell was organized for culture—and Ebell has a tremendous work to do in the community. The $300 which goes to the State Federation can be diverted for good here at home. Without recrimination, and without accusation, I can say we are working on different lines, and let us say to the State Federation: "We do not need you, so long as you work along your present lines."

Some of the city's prominent club women gave voice to the following opinions, following the news that Ebell had voted to withdraw.

Mrs. Russell J. Waters, president of the Friday Morning Club, did not care to make a lengthy statement yesterday afternoon. However she said the withdrawal of such a powerful organization as the Ebell Club would be a great blow to the Federation.

"OF NO EFFECT."

Mrs. Andrew W. Francisco, member of the State Board of the Federation, seemed to think this sudden action on the part of the Ebell Club was more to be regretted than mourned.

"This action will have no effect whatever on the Federation," Mrs. Francisco said yesterday. "Of course, it is to be regretted. But you see, we admitted seventy women's clubs this year, so that the withdrawal of one club will have no effect on the Federation.

"There are two or three reasons I know of which have been bothering the Ebell Club for some time. One of these reasons was the amount of dues they have had to pay into the Federation. And then, they have seemed averse to the idea of Federation, when they are really a smaller Federation incorporated into a larger one.

"The Federation will view this withdrawal with deep regret, but there will be absolutely no effect on the main body."

Mrs. Herbert A. Cable, president of Los Angeles district, said last night that she did not feel herself at liberty to make any statement. "I am very sorry if it is true," Mrs. Cable said. "It came as a great surprise to me, I assure you."

The Ebell Club is now in its twenty-first year. It is the second largest club in the State.

PRESIDENT SURPRISED, THINKS BREAK WILL HEAL.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WOODLAND, June 7.—Mrs. Emily Hoppin, president of the State Federation of Women's Clubs, was informed tonight of the secession of the Ebell Club of Los Angeles from the State Federation ranks. Told of the reasons, and resolutions completing the breach between the southern body and the State organization, she expressed considerable surprise and concern. At the same time she was sanguine that the breach would be healed.

"At our meeting," said Mrs. Hoppin, "Mrs. Calvin Hartwell of Pasadena introduced a by-law which would prohibit any woman holding office in any Federal, State or public capacity from holding a federation office. The fight against the by-law was waged strongly by both northern and southern women, several in the Ebell Club of Los Angeles using strong influence against its adoption.

"I have no doubt the Ebell Club may reconsider its action when it learns the defeat of the by-law did not of a necessity mean the converting of the federation into a political machine. The federation is not political. Politics, as well as other topics, may be discussed in federation meetings. These discussions have absolutely no significance, and are no more than the natural outcome of a desire to keep abreast of the times.

"I am sure, however, that things will be straightened out as soon as the Ebell Club members are acquainted with the facts."

FINAL ANSWER IS DUE TODAY.

ON POSSIBLE COMPLAINTS FOR WHIFFEN CAMPAIGNERS.

District Attorney Receives Evidence Which may Result in Action Against Those Connected with "Business Men's Committee." Legal Points Present Close Puzzle.

Dist.-Atty. Woolwine held a long conference with his deputies yesterday over the request for a complaint against those connected with the "Business Men's Committee," which still owes Whiffen workers about $14,000 for services performed on election day.

This morning he will give his final answer as to whether he can hope for a conviction. It may be that he will ask the grand jury to investigate the matter if there are still some points in the evidence which seem difficult to find to make a clear case of violation of the purity of elections law.

Evidence was turned over to the District Attorney yesterday by Detective Harry Raymond and others who have been working on the case for more than a week. Some of this evidence tends to show that men prominently connected with the Whiffen Campaign Committee not only financed the "Business Men's Committee," but co-operated with that fake organization during its meteoric career at the polls.

H. E. Prettyman, who organized the committee, is still missing. It was learned by the police yesterday that he is being kept cognizant of every move on the part of the police or the District Attorney, and that he understands that if a complaint is issued it will not be very comfortable for him in these parts.

That the men and women who accepted worthless yellow tickets in lieu of money for their election-day activity received no money whatever was shown yesterday. Evidence has been discovered, however, to prove that arrangements were made to get money to pay off these workers.

Henry Quandt, to whom is being assigned the claims of the workers, expects to have all available assignments in time to commence civil action against President Whiffen and Campaign Manager Snowden this week. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine said last night, at the close of a long conference over the vote fake, that it is a very close legal question as to the commission of a crime. He said, however, that he expected to have sufficient evidence this morning to determine whether a prosecution can be made successfully.

BOAT IS FINED.

A fine of $5000 was levied upon the customs officers yesterday for leaving gasoline launch Aniel by the local waters on the night of May 31 without having clearance papers. The Aniel is owned by Capt. Julio Liparaldi, who with P. Urso, William Lindberg and F. Bahriel, is charged with having attempted to bring a load of thirty-four Chinese laborers into the country. The defendants were arraigned before United States Commissioner Williams yesterday and the hearing set for June 16. The bond required in each case was $3000, and all were returned to the County Jail, being unable to furnish the necessary security.

MANY SPECIAL TRAINS.

Southern Pacific to Handle One Every Other Day from Now Until the First of October.

An average of a special train every other day from now on until October 1 has been booked by the Southern Pacific, according to a statement made yesterday by General Passenger Agent Batturs.

"This is in addition to running our regular trains in extra sections," said Mr. Batturs.

Mr. Batturs further asserted that he expects additional bookings which will run up the total of all special trains handled to 200 or 300 for the quarter.

MUST KEEP BRAIN CLEAR.

Covina Resident Asks Supervisors to Stop Persons Smoking in the Election Booths.

Smoke in voting booths befogs the brains of the voters and they don't vote right.

The situation at election time becomes somewhat clouded by reason of smoking at the polls.

These conclusions were reached by F. C. McCandless of Covina, who asked the Board of Supervisors yesterday to pass an ordinance prohibiting smoking in voting places. He said that smoking interferes with work and that those who were required to sit through the long vigil were always hampered by the clouds of dense smoke that hover over the ballots.

He wants the smoke of each vote battle cleared away. The Supervisors will take the matter up today.

BOY STILL UNCONSCIOUS.

Adolph Bernard, son of J. Bernard of No. 1300 West Forty-eighth street, is still unconscious at the Clara Barton Hospital from the effects of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile on Broadway last Friday. His condition is very serious.

OVER 'TILL FRIDAY.

The case of Nicholas Senn Zogg, who was convicted of passing a worthless check for $15, went over in Judge Willis's court yesterday until Friday upon motion for a new trial. Sentence was to have been imposed yesterday.

KILLED AS AUTO TURNS TURTLE IN MOUNTAINS.

WHILE on his way to the Imperial Valley to purchase and arrange for shipping to Los Angeles some of the first big lots of cantaloupes, Frank F. Musante of Musante Bros., wholesale produce merchants, was killed yesterday morning when his automobile turned turtle, pinning him beneath it, on a mountain road seventy miles east of San Diego.

According to report received here late last night, the body was found by John Duman, an El Centro ranchman, who was passing along the road shortly after noon. It seems that the automobile struck a rut in the road and turned over several times as it rolled down the mountainside. The machine was not damaged. Mr. Musante was found pinned beneath the steering wheel and side of the car, with no signs of injuries. Death is believed to have resulted from internal hemorrages. The body was cold when found, showing that death had come hours before.

The accident occurred two miles beyond Campo on the Imperial Valley road, between Warren's Ranch and Boulevard.

Mr. Musante left his home here, No. 640 New High street, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, bidding his mother and two brothers good-bye, telling them he would be back in a few days. He also leaves a sister who is in a religious institution at Hollywood. He was 28 years of age and unmarried. The body will be brought here for burial. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

FOR COMBINED ACTION.

City and County Will Hold Conference for Improvements at Joint Cost as Law Permits.

The Board of Supervisors yesterday showed an inclination to join with the City Council, under the provisions of the new State law allowing counties and cities to share in paying for improvements of intercity as well as of city benefit. The specific case, which was favored by the Supervisors, relates to the separation of grades on Mission road at Macy street, where the Pacific Electric and Los Angeles Railway tracks cross.

The city has endeavored for a long time to build a viaduct at this point, but the cost seemed prohibitive in the only available assessment district, and as the county would be benefited quite as much as the city, there was no way open at that time to share the expense. With the passage of the new law, however, the county may join with the city in the expense of any public improvement. The Supervisors will hold a session with the Council shortly, when plans for the improvement will be discussed.

The Clerk Guaranteed It.

"A customer came into my store the other day and said to one of my clerks, 'Have you anything that will cure diarrhoea?' And my clerk went and got him a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and said to him, 'If this does not cure you I will not charge you a cent for it.' So he took it home and came back in a day or two and said he was cured," writes J. H. Berry & Co., Salt Creek, Va. Obtainable everywhere.—(Advertisement.

PLAY OF PAST IS "ROSEMARY."

Lacks "Punch" Demanded by Stage of Today.

But Drew Gives a Striking Picture in Last Act.

Opera Singer Leads Off New Orpheum Acts.

BY HENRY CHRISTEEN WARNACK

"Rosemary—that's for remembrance," but do we want to remember? Or, if our remembrance be pleasant, would it not perhaps be the sweeter charity to cherish our memory quite sacredly alone, without having it exposed to the torture of footlights in even so charming a house as the Mason when presided over by the genius of John Drew?

I suspect myself of trying to say that "Rosemary" as a play may possibly have been interesting to persons greatly given to sentiment twenty years ago and that I respect their memories of an event safely dead, but I cannot possibly conceive of any one nursing the sick illusion that "Rosemary" is an interesting drama today. It is maudlin and weak, belonging to a period entirely remote and disassociated with the present and is utterly void of the spirit of modern drama.

Now all modern drama is not good and all ancient drama is not bad—but "Rosemary" is both antiquated and ineffectual. It never becomes interesting until it is all over. One hastens through the main event to where it is forty years past.

In other words we sit through three acts of charmingly silly twaddle, presented by persons of more or less competence, in order to enjoy five minutes of retrospection shaken from the trembling lips of a good old doderer of 90.

It is in this fleeting five minutes of the fourth act that we get a glimpse of the delightfully capable John Drew so long established in the hearts of all stage devotees.

This glimpse of our favorite shows him at a zenith of power. The scene is anti-climax in so far as the play is concerned, but it offers Mr. Drew his one opportunity of the evening and he meets it with that finished artistry which he has always brought to his performances.

Mr. Drew has never been a jealous star. He has never failed to associate himself with a presentable supporting cast. He has a generous taste for sharing his laurels. A big man is only bigger when he can shine clearly among many other brilliants. It is a pity that other persons of splendid stage talent may not emulate his hearty example in this respect.

His leading lady this year is Miss Alexandra Carlisle, a refreshing little English lady who threads the gloomy little drama with as much light as it will bear. Hubert Druce is an exceptional Prof. Jogram, and Harry Harwood is a notable Capt. Cruickshank. The comedy of the quarrel between these cheerful old cranks is a welcome relief to the play's lack of distinction.

For a long time I have been praying for a vehicle that might accommodate middle-aged heroes without bringing about the inevitable wedding of late autumn and young spring. "Rosemary" is not the answer. Sooner or later the answer will come, but we will not have to go back a full quarter of a century to get it. We must dig it out of the future and not the past.

"Rosemary" has cobwebs on it and cobwebs are not so good on a play as upon a bottle of wine.

Orpheum.

Madame Mariska Aldrich, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company, headlines the new acts at the Orpheum this week. Her first number yesterday was the brilliant Santuzza air from "Cavalleria Rusticana," which was well received. Mme. Aldrich won her vaudeville audience particularly, however, in her ballads, especially "Annie Laurie" and "Love Me." The latter song, by the way, is a new one by Rose O'Neill of "Kupie" fame. Mme. Aldrich has an excellent stage presence.

"All Wrong" isn't quite, but nearly. It is a noisy sketch presented by Frances Nordstrom and company, in which a hysterical lady tells her matter-of-fact husband she wishes he was a thief and a murderer, and then goes to sleep and dreams that he is, the dream being, of course, a part of the sketch. Miss Nordstrom, while possessed of beauty and apparent dramatic ability, overdoes the hysteria, which detracts from the comedy values of the sketch. William Pinkham is excellent as the nonplussed husband.

Tom Lewis's sketch, "Brother Fans," is a hybrid. It starts as comedy, takes a header into melodrama, narrowly escapes being tragedy, and then rushes back into the comedy note. Those who love baseball well enough may find it amusing. Mr. Lewis himself, of course, is delightful. His curtain speech, a lot of phrases strung together without meaning, but recited with all due pompousness and seriousness, is very funny.

Harris and Manion have a lot of old wheezes in the way of jokes, but their songs are delightful and new, and their voices pleasing.

The Four Amarantha have a beautifully-dressed ballet dancing turn.

Emma Carus pleases even better than last week. She gives us some new and delightful songs, and her burlesque ballroom dancing is very amusing. Law Dockstader in his very clever T. R. monologue, appeared to be quite over the heads of his audience, yesterday, most of whom appeared to have checked their brains in the lobby or somewhere.

Harry Cooper again carried the mail and some jokes out among the audience.

"Mission Play."

The "Mission Play" is in its fifty-ninth week at San Gabriel. It is doubtful if the drawing power of the pageant drama was ever so strong as now. San Gabriel has become a mecca for tourists.

Fred Wilson has recovered from his recent illness and is again playing the part of Ubaldo.

Pantages.

Maude Leone, formerly leading woman of the old Lyceum Stock Company, reopens her Pantages engagement in this city in a new sketch by Willard Mack, entitled "Inside Stuff." Although the piece is a trifle dry and tiresome, the capable acting of Miss Leone makes up for what her vehicle lacks. Mr. O'Connor, as the "bad" chief of police, deserves special recognition for his clever acting.

Especially praiseworthy is "The Garden of the Rajah," with he ten little Mormon girls who give an excellent account of themselves singing and dancing. The act is gorgeously set, well acted and clean.

Others on the bill are the Three Shentons, who do their songs better than they impersonate Indians and cowboys; Jane Barber and Joe Jackson, with some eccentric comedy; Florence Modena in her highly-amusing farce, "Bargain Mad," and Aiken, Figg and Duffy, who supply the inevitable "frost." A Keystone film completes the programme.

Empress.

Joe Fenton and his company in an original acrobatic turn headline the new Empress bill. They were natty tennis costumes, do some neat stunts and weave a little patter into a prelude, which gives excuse for the use of the flying rings in a park playground.

Madge Maitland sings Yiddish and Irish songs and gets away with the noise.

"The Auto Bandit" is a dramatic comedy with a thrilling racing scene at the finis.

The Dancing Kennedies appear in some pleasing new ballroom dances.

Hippodrome.

"The Dream Girl" is a novel production this week at the Hippodrome. One song furnished the motive for the whole act, and there is a quick change between each verse. Stasia Moore does most of her work in the wings getting into new costumes, while Tom keeps the audience laughing.

A whole entertainment concentrated into one act is presented by the Gladstone family. Songs, dances, instrumental numbers, ending up in a live comedy stunt by a clown band, are offered by these seven clever vaudevillians.

"The Isle of Joy" is a roughneck pantomimic act presented by the Zeb Zarrow troupe of comiques; "A Case of Pickles" is a give-and-take affair filled with pitiling patter; Mary McElree, "California's little song bird," does good work. Trained dogs, a ventriloquist and the movies complete the bill.

Republic.

There are three headliners this week on the Republic's big bill.

The Lung Tchang Tuen illusion production is elaborately staged. It is a magical act, in which a quasi-Chinese and his fair assistant produce something apparently from nothing.

Florence Bell and company appear in a strong little sketch centering around a murder mystery, "The Woman Who Knew."

"When Women Rule" (in 2013) is a comedy skit of the future that is a good laugh-getter.

A tall red-haired comedienne who pulls off some funny quick-change stunts and also sings a little is Grace Cushman. The Girl and the Elevator Boy is another good comedy act with special scenery. The Hejman Sisters have a dainty little turn of singing and dancing; Mack and Held sing, dance and punch bags while they are spilling the joy stuff. A piano accordionist and several reels of movies finish up the bill.

Woodley.

Miss Bessie Barriscale, whose talents as an emotional actress have lent much to her success on the stage, is seen to equally as great advantage on the screen. In "The Cup of Life," the feature of Woodleys' this week, in which Miss Barriscale plays the leading role, the grace and beauty of this favorite star prove well adapted to the character she impersonates, that of the worldly, frivolous girl.

Miss Enid Markey also does good work as the girl who chooses the simpler delights of home life.

The story is a very human one, with some genuine thrills.

"The Goddess," featuring the stars Anita Stewart and Earle Williams, becomes more interesting with each chapter. The third episode is shown this week.

Superba.

The Superba offers a strong double feature picture bill this week, including three Broadway stars. Holbrook Blinn and Alice Brady in the "Boss," and Kathryn Osterman, who won honors in "Piff, Paff, Pouff," in "Housekeeping Under Cover."

Alice Brady is the heroine of the "Boss," which is based upon one of the greatest stage successes of her father, William A. Brady. Miss Brady plays the part of the young wife of Michael Regan, the financial "boss" who has risen to power through iron determination to succeed at all hazards in the game of life.

Holbrook Blinn is the "boss," and his powerful personality and vigorous acting is well suited in the part.

Kathryn Osterman in "Housekeeping Under Cover" revives memories of her capital work in the Broadway success, "Piff, Paff, Pouff" and "The Persian Garden." The comedy is a gentle satire on modern hotel and rooming-house life.

Tally's Broadway.

Marguerite Clark in "The Pretty Sister of Jose," is the drawing card at Tally's Broadway.

This play is founded on the fascinating story by Frances Hodgson Burnett, with its scenes laid in Spain. The photography is beautiful, and there is a very thrilling bullfight scene.

Miss Clark is thoroughly charming as the winsome, if sometimes temperamental, little Pepita, who scorns all men, but is finally won by the handsome toreador after he is severely wounded in the bullfight.

The musical programme this week is especially pleasing.

Majestic.

"The Eternal City" opeped its second week at the Majestic on Sunday to a crowded house.

The excellent acting of Pauline Fredericks and her company, and the beautiful scenes, secured at the exact locations where the action of the story takes place, continue to fascinate all comers. The musical programme is excellent.

Alhambra.

"The Juggernaut" opened at the Alhambra on Sunday to a big audience. The thrill feature of this film is a very realistic railroad wreck; an engine and a heavily loaded train of seven cars all pitched off a bridge into a river. The advance notices say that the wreck cost the Vitagraph company more than $20,000.

Of course the plot is absorbing and the acting good.

Anita Stewart and Earl Williams have the leading roles.

They also appear in the second in-

FOR WOMEN AND MEN.

Facts, Features and Fanc

BY OLIVE GRAY.

WHEN you go to the San Francisco Exposition—and I hope every one can go—I wish all the world could go!—there is one article of dress which you must be sure to take along. It cannot be purchased there, or anywhere in fact and it is needed more than all other raiment. One article of dress, did I say—it is two. Old shoes! What though you are possessed of perfectly good and unaching pedal extremities, when pursuing the even tenor of your stay-at-home way, when you visit the fair and spend anywhere from twelve to twenty-five hours per day on your feet—to say nothing of the time which others spend on them, or at least on your toes—"Beg pardon, ma'am!"—those patient members will complain. Absent from your suitcase the fluffy dinner blouse, the pretty neckpiece, even the restful negligee if need be, but take along, oh, I beseech you! a pair of faithful old shoes. One lady of The Times party was heard to remark that in her estimation there was but one oversight, but one item in which the management had been neglectful of its guests. "And that is?" asked a ready-to-bristle hearer. "They should have furnished us each with a pair of wooden legs."

Well, were I to have granted to me a concession which would be certain of continuous patronage, it would be an old-shoes booth. That is, of course, if there were some mystical way of uniting the old shoes to all-coming feet. I say advisedly "uniting," for you know yourself that it is only after your shoes are "all out of shape" that they are truly comfy. A chiropodist recently told me that ninety per cent. of the women who come to him for treatment declare the reason for their foot trouble is that "they have been wearing shoes altogether too large!" He didn't tell me—horrid creature—what ailed the men's feet.

I have often thought that nature, had she really intended being kind, would have furnished us with detachable feet and several pairs of them, or at least two sets, one for practical purposes and one for looks.

At the big, beautiful fair no matter how many kinds of railroads and chairy sorts of pushables you may use, you really have to do all the in-the-building looking from the vantage ground of your own pedestals. I was glad mine were ample and without vain adornment; but there were people who still know and tell the size of their footwear. Anyhow pack your old shoes first and if there is room, put in the necessities and a few luxuries, when you are making ready to travel fairward.

A Fair Fad.

While at the fair we saw some of the Exposition scarfs, as are called the knitted neck warmers. The Los Angeles weather, which we carried with us, brought out more of the white organdy fads than these. Some of the wide, wider, widest of plaited neck frills were most charming when a girlish face blossomed above and the flower-like head was topped by a small, smaller, smallest turban.

Some of these frills were fully sixteen inches in width, and were tied about a third of the way down with an encircling velvet ribbon. Save for a slight turn downward of the frill the roguish eyes might have peeped through its folds.

Newest Sweaters.

Some of the newest sweaters have but a half belt and that set at the back and a trifle above the normal line. Most jaunty are these, especially in the knitted silk or fibre silk which come in every color and shade thinkable. Lemon yellow and also orange are among the most popular of the colorings worn, especially with white skirts, white shoes and white hats. But, in case the wearer is prone to cast over your costume a sallowing reflection, you may choose green, watermelon pink, or any of the lovely blues which Solomon's rainbow offers.

By the way, did you know we have right in Los Angeles a shop of our very own? A place where you may have your sweater knitted to order, if you fail to find your desire among the great assortment displayed. You will find no better service anywhere than those made in Angeles ones; nor any at less cost.

The Garden Gate.

Not, as you might think, a mode in wickets but a style in new frocks for small folk. One of these suits was made available among the damsel's perfectly lovely place on the Yes, honestly!—and what was light upon returning home that one of our very own houses—that big one on Broadway—had the very week's offering to advertise coat is built upon loose and has chic pockets, 'round the upper edge but for make-believe, and believes of the same sort in front of the flaring skirt is extremely short saying. There is a dash about this novel "Garden which suggests the gayety at the period when hanging garden gate seems the thing in life. It is pretty in blue serge or in black checks.

THREE HORSES DIE OF STINGS.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SANTA PAULA, June 7.—Three fine horses were killed and two others injured when a farm hand on the E. O. Tucker ranch drove a five-horse team through an apiary, seeking a short cut to his work. A hive was knocked over, the farm hand ran, and the horses, driven frantic by the bee stings, became entangled in a tree.

The leg of one horse, purchased recently at a cost of $250, was cut off on the disc and the bodies of all were frightfully swollen from the poison of the stings.

Mr. Tucker ran to the rescue, staying until the animals were free, after which forty-six stingers were extracted from his face and hands. The loss amounted to about $950 for the three horses.

LOOP THE LOOP ON OILED ROAD.

MOTOR DRIVERS ARE SPILLED ON POMONA STREET.

Oil Tank on Bike Punctured and Slippery Stuff Greases Pavement. Youth Seriously Cut by Broken Milk Bottle in Smash-up—Couple Injured in Explosion.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, June 7.—When Charley Craig of Ontario turned the corner of First street and started down Oak street today he swung wide and hit an auto driven by William Fox of No. 250 Columbia avenue.

The collision bruised Charley's face and head, and the lubricating oil tank on his motorbike was punctured. The oil all ran out on the newly-laid asphalt street surface.

After the wreckage was cleared away there was a great pool of oil on the crown of the street. Hitting about a thirty mile clip a motorcyclist suddenly turned the corner and hit the oiled spot. He looped the loop and sat down in the street on his hip pockets.

Bystanders assisted him to his feet and dragged his motorcycle out of the way just in time to see another rider swing around the corner, hit the greased track and turn a brilliant flip-flap. For an hour or two the natives took great pleasure in watching the nonskid tires go down in ignominious defeat in the pool of oil.

CUT BY MILK BOTTLE.

Thirsting for a "Pomona cocktail," Archie Varcoe rode downtown and got a bottle of milk. On the way home the motorcycle on which he was riding crashed into one ridden by F. B. Roberts of No. 598 West Monterey street, the milk bottle was broken, and a piece of glass slit the under side of Archie's arm from the wrist to the elbow. The gash was six inches long and more than an inch deep.

At the corner of First and Park avenue a freight train blocked Archie's way when he was going home. Mr. Roberts rode up on a motorcycle and started across the tracks ahead of Archie. The Roberts machine went a few yards and then began wobbling. It got in Archie's way and he crashed into it. Neither rider was thrown, but the milk bottle was broken against the handle bar of the Varcoe motorbike.

SERIOUSLY BURNED.

Burned from head to foot by flames which resulted from the explosion of a gasoline stove on which they were extracting honey, Mr. and Mrs. Arvin S. Dunn, who reside at corner of Ramona and Holt avenues, were rushed to the hospital this afternoon. There is scarcely a patch of skin the size of a man's hand anywhere on their bodies that does not carry a fire blister. Their burns are not deep, however, and they will probably be able to leave the hospital in ten days.

Mrs. Dunn was working over the stove at the time it exploded and she was literally covered with blazing oil. She rushed into the bedroom screaming for help, and in smothering the flames on her clothing with a comforter Mr. Dunn suffered painful burns.

MAMMA CHASES ELOPING GIRL.

THREE COUNTIES VISITED BY LOVE-LORN COUPLES.

Two Marriages Finally Meet with Parental Acquiescence — Heavyweight Mother Handicapped in Long Trip After Fugitives—Warships Ordered to Long Beach.

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

LONG BEACH, June 7.—In an exciting race over three counties, lithe Cupid had no difficulty in distancing today Mrs. Alice Layman of Lomita, who admits to a weight of 270 pounds. The fulsome Mrs. Layman was assisted, too, by the police in her chase through Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Orange counties after her daughter, Miss Edna Layman, aged 18 years.

A gay young autoist, Jack Kempster, himself 19, presented the daughter as Mrs. Kempster as the climax of the chase on Pine avenue late this afternoon. Mrs. Layman seemingly overwhelmed her new son-in-law in a forgiving embrace after explanations were made.

A complaint charging incorrigibility had been issued at the mother's behest for the young bride. It will be dismissed because of the Hymeneal knot. Police Detective Winters, who found the youngsters, was also interested in Miss Josephine Russell, aged 17, a ward of the Juvenile Court, and Teddy Rankin, aged 20, another chauffeur. The latter pair were also married today, and Mrs. Gertrude Russell, property woman at the Balboa movie studio, a second anxious mother, extended an olive branch.

The two girl brides decided yesterday that parental opposition but sharpened their desire to be wed. They secretly met Kempster and Rankin. Mrs. Layman was hot on their trail soon after her daughter had left the home place at Lomita. She came to the local police. They sent her to Justice Reeve, who issued an incorrigibility complaint for the young woman.

Returning to Long Beach, she found that the four had headed for San Bernardino in an auto to be wed. The chase led from that section, where the four youngsters evidently failed to get a license, to Santa Ana. The licenses were procured for the double wedding later, just before the arrival of the mother. The four returned to Long Beach late today.

WARSHIPS COMING.

Three warships, and possibly four, will cast anchor off Long Beach on or before July 3 to fire a salute during the dedication of the Lincoln Memorial monument in Pacific Park. The warships will remain off the pier or in the Los Angeles outer harbor for a number of days. This information was received today from Congressman Randall, who says he has a message from Secretary Daniels to that effect.

Naval cadets to the number of 1500 are now cruising on the battleships Ohio, Wisconsin and Missouri in Atlantic waters. The ships will pass through the Panama Canal, according to the Congressman's information, in time to assist in the local celebrations July 3 and 4. The Chamber of Commerce and Monument Committee are hastily arranging plans for a reception to the West Pointers and officers and men of the ships.

Although the committee has made efforts to have warships sent here for the dedication, their success surprised them. It is believed that one or two of the cruisers on the Pacific fleet would be sent here, and the committee is greatly pleased. A big celebration will be held here July, 3, 4 and 5.

Curing Catarrh is A Simple Method

Go to its Source and the Cure Is Then Accomplished.

Only those who have used S. S. S. for the blood know that catarrh is simply a blood trouble.

Most people, uninstructed in this membraneous disease, treat their nose and throat as if catarrh was a local trouble. It is not so. To treat catarrh it is necessary to go into the stomach, the liver, the lungs, the kidneys and all the vital organs of the body. And it is S. S. S. that at once enters the entire blood circulation, all the organs of the body, all the mucous surfaces and becomes a dominant factor for renewed health. It is a simple method when you figure it out. Catarrh is plainly an inflammation of the mucous membranes.

And there is in S. S. S. certain ingredients which cause these mucous surfaces to change or convert their secretions into a substance for easy elimination. A special book on this subject will be mailed to all who write to The Swift Specific Co., 110 Swift Bldg., Atlanta, Ga.

Catarrh is very often the result of some other blood trouble, some germ that gets into the blood and multiplies beyond the control of nature.

S. S. S. is the remdy. Do not accept a substitute for this matchless remedy. Read the circular wrapped around the bottle. It is important.

Check the Symptoms of Lung Trouble

Symptoms of severe lung trouble, such as fever, night sweats and loss of weight etc., should be checked, or serious results will follow. Eckman's Alterative has brought about many recoveries. Read this:

305 W. Thirty-sixth St., New York.

"Gentlemen: Since I was a very young woman I was a sufferer from Bronchitis. I tried doctor after doctor, getting little or no benefit. Finally I had night sweats, weak spells and lost rapidly in weight, and my doctor told me if they were not checked I would have Consumption. Miss Mary Korhamer, who is a friend of mine, recovered after taking your Alterative, and insisted that I try it. I am now, after two years, perfectly well, strong and healthy.' (Abbreviated.)

(Affidavit) MRS. ROSA VOELPEL.

Eckman's Alterative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and upbuilding the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries.

stallment of "The Goddess," and one has an opportunity to contrast the work of these two artists in the very dissimilar characterizations in the two plays.

Clune's Auditorium.

"The Clansman" continues its unprecedented popularity at Clune's Auditorium. The fascination of this picture seems never to abate, many hundreds of people having viewed it a second and even a third time.

Miller's

"A Woman's Resurrection," adapted from Tolstoi's soul-stirring drama, "The Resurrection," is proving a great drawing card at Miller's this week. The story is one that grips and the production is notable. The cast includes Betty Nansen, famous actress who gives an exceedingly convincing characterization in her exacting role. Edward Jose is excellent in the difficult part assigned him, while William J. Kelly makes an ideal hero, handsome and youthful. The added attraction the first three days of the week is the third installment of that new serial sensation, "The Goddess," with Anita Stewart and Earle Williams.

Clune's Broadway.

Alice Hollister, Harry Millarde and Anna Nilsson are creating a sensation this week at Clune's Broadway in "The Destroyer," a strong photo-drama, which gives all three artists every opportunity for the display of their histrionic powers.

There are also some diverting comedy films.

Bostock.

Bostock's arena and jungle continues to entertain its patrons this week, giving performances every afternoon at 3 o'clock and evenings at 8 o'clock. There is a new programme on.

The zoo is open daily from 10 a. m. to 10 p. m. and the feeding of the animals takes place immediately after the matinee performance daily. The bathing of the polar bears is a feautre of the intermission, along with the free rides on the elephants every afternoon.

The lion farm in charge of Capt. Jack Bonavita and featuring the three cubs, Wilson, Marshall and Bryan, is another big attraction.

Garrick.

Betty Nansen, the famous emotional actress who has been decorated by several European monarchs, appears to excellent advantage this week at the Garrick Theater, in "Anna Karenina," Tolstoi's powerful, realistic masterpiece. The second part of the Garrick bill is filled by the latest installment of "The Diamond from the Sky."

In the title role of "Anna Karenina," Miss Nansen vividly interprets the creature of sorrow around whom the play centers. The picturization was made with fine perception of the dramatic values of the Tolstoi novel. The present installment of "The Diamond from the Sky," starring Lottie Pickford, keeps up the progression of thrilling incidents and spectacular situations.

Palace of Pictures.

The folly of counting too much on "blueblood" lineage is powerfully brought out in the latest drama of the "Who Pays?" series, being shown this week at the Palace of Pictures, in conjunction with "C.O.D.", the farce-comedy which convulsed the country. "Blue Blood and Yellow" is the name of the new picture of the series.

Ruth Roland and Henry King, the dual stars of the "Who Pays?" dramas, do some of their most convincing acting in "Blue Blood and Yellow." From the first tense situation the plot moves relentlessly to its logical end. "C.O.D." is a continuous chuckle for four reels and is based on the stage success which made the nation laugh. The double bill will be continued all week.

Optic.

No small part of the interest attached to "The Outlaw's Revenge," the Mutual Master Picture which is being shown this week at the Optic Theater, is due to the conditions in Mexico which it portrays. The chaotic situation in the "country of too many leaders" is vividly brought out in the dramatic plot and by the acting of Mae Marsh, Robert Harron and R. A. Walsh, the three stars who are featured.

"The Outlaw's Revenge" is said to have been based on an episode in the life of General Francisco Villa, who was declared an outlaw after he had defied a federal offices. He escapes through the aid of an American girl and her sweetheart and later becomes a leader of the revolutionists. The way in which he repays the Americans for their help makes a thrilling climax to the photoplay.

NEW RECORDS ARE SCORED.

SEVERAL ISSUES TOUCH THEIR HIGHEST PRICES.

"War" Specialties are Especially Strong, as Also are Coppers and General Motors—Canadian Pacific Sold Presumably for German Account, Takes a Small Dip.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, June 7.—Renewed manipulation in the war and motor specialties and an abrupt decline in Canadian Pacific were the contrasting features of today's professional and irregular market. General Electric advanced 4½ points to 168½, its highest price in several years, and General Motors gained 5, selling at 157, a new high record. Bethlehem Steel came forward in the last hour, rising 9½ to 158, or within a point of its best quotation, made exactly a month ago. The decline in Canadian Pacific, which fell 4 points to 149¼, its minimum quotation since 1908, when it was on a 7 per cent. basis, as against the current 10 per cent., tended to unsettle the entire list for a time. Its weakness was the more inexplicable, from the fact that it rose over 3 points in London, and gained over a point in the initial local dealings. According to gossip on the exchange, Canadian Pacific sold here for Amsterdam account, the latter presumably representing German interests. There were reports that the British government intended to take over some of the railway shops for the manufacture of war munitions. Coppers again were the strongest individual group, Amalgamated adding to its recent gain on the successful dissolution of the company, together with firmness in the metal market, where the quotation ruled at 19¼ cents. United States Steel rose and fell within a point range. Total sales amounted to 492,000 shares. Western advices were less optimistic, that section showing an increasing disposition to await the outcome of the international crisis. Bonds were steady, with some increase of "future" selling. Total sales, par value, aggregated $1,735,000. United States bonds were unchanged on call.

COMMERCIAL.

The price of chickens has taken a very decided slump during the past few days, and dealers are paying the lowest prices that have been paid for many months for such stock as they are taking. Broilers dropped to 15 cents a pound on the buying list, while fryers of the best kind were down to 20 cents. This same figure is quoted on roasters weighing over three pounds. Hens are ranging from 13 to 17 cents. Turkeys are also lower, and range from 15 to 17 cents. Other fowl remain unchanged.

While the price of poultry is going down, that of pork in the finished state, meaning ham, bacon and smoked pork advanced yesterday morning from ½ to 1 cent a pound. A heavier demand and smaller shipments for several weeks past are ascribed as the causes for the change.

The first whitewater grapes of the year arrived from Imperial Valley and commanded $2 per crate of four baskets. The grapes were fairly well ripened, and will be followed in a few days by seedless Thompsons. It will be three weeks before the blue grapes are coming in. Cantaloupes declined materially, selling at $1.75 on pony crates, and $3.50 on standards. Apricots sold from $1.50 to $1.60.

Egg prices remained the same here, and in the north dropped ½ cent. Receipts were 438 cases of locals and that many of Petalumas. Butter arrivals were 53,100 pounds. No change was indicated here. Cheese was a little more firm on northern stock. Receipts were 1850 pounds.

Potatoes were plentiful and arrivals were 81 sacks by train, while the bulk of receipts are by truck. Onion arrivals were 861 crates, and the market continued weak. Beans are also weak.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

ALLEN LEAVES POLICE BOARD.

RESIGNS PLACE FOR BUSINESS REASONS, HE SAYS.

Announcement by Mayor-elect Sebastian that Place is to be Filled by Parley M. Johnson Gives Promise of Complications When Nomination is Forwarded to Council.

Robert M. Allen, member of the Police Commission, who, according to an announcement made by Mayor-elect Sebastian, is to be succeeded by Parley M. Johnson, tendered his resignation to Mayor Rose yesterday.

"Business circumstances" is the reason given by Mr. Allen and, although the letter of resignation does not so state, it is understood he is to be commissioned referee in a Federal Court case that will require his services the rest of the month.

Mayor Rose said the resignation will be accepted with regret.

Mr. Johnson, slated to succeed Mr. Allen in the administration of Mayor Sebastian, called on Mayor Rose yesterday, but the Mayor was out. The Council has gone on record against confirmation of "eleventh hour" appointments, at the close of the Rose administration, and it is believed improbable that the place will be filled until Mr. Johnson is nominated.

Mr. Allen's letter of resignation is as follows:

Hon. H. H. Rose,
Mayor of the City of Los Angeles,
City Hall, Los Angeles.

My dear Mayor:

It is with sincerest regret that I am forced, through business circumstances to request that I am forthwith relieved from any further duties as a member of your Police Commission.

I had intended to continue my pleasant affiliations with you and Commissioner Owen until the expiration of your administration next month, when Mayor-elect Sebastian will be inaugurated, but unlooked for business developments prevent my remaining an official of the city of Los Angeles during the month of June.

I am tendering my resignation in this manner believing that my feelings of gratitude to you and my wishes for a successful administration by your successor will be spread upon the minutes of the Police Commission, which in my opinion is the Mayor's most important and closest advisory body.

I trust that you will receive this request and grant it in the same spirit that I am making it, and I wish also to compliment you upon the very satisfactory administration you have given Los Angeles in the face of most unusual difficulties. I am

Very truly yours,
[Signed.] ROBERT M. ALLEN.

CEMENT PLANT LEASE.
MAYOR SIGNS THE PAPERS.

The lease of the city cement plant at Monolith to Los Angeles county was closed and signed by the Mayor yesterday after the Council had approved a resolution drafted by the Public Service Committee. By this action the county takes possession immediately at a rental of $27,500 a month for a term of three years. At the end of one year the city may offer the plant for sale and the county agrees to bid $550,000.

Supervisor Norton, who followed the lease to the Council and to the Mayor yesterday, said he believes the county would buy the plant outright at the end of the year. The lease provides that the city may buy its cement of standard quality from the county at $1.35 a barrel—nearly $1.50 under the "trust" price, and the city is to have a royalty of 5 5-6 cents a barrel on all cement manufactured and $11,000 a year for depreciation; this to be returned in the event of purchase.

At the present time the county has inquiries for large orders and Supervisor Norton said he had no doubt the plant could be kept running to capacity on profitable business.

Councilman Betkouski, chairman of the Public Service Committee, and Mayor Rose, both expressed themselves as highly pleased with the terms of the contract.

GAS RATES TODAY.
COUNCIL TO HEAR KICKS.

Gas rates for the ensuing year as recommended by the Public Utilities Board, will be considered by the City Council this morning, when protests from the three gas companies will be heard. The utilities board recommends a charge of 62½ cents for gas of 1000 British thermal units for not less than 180 days and 850 B.T.U. for the remainder of the year. The proposed rate is a reduction of 1½ cents, aside from the better quality of gas required, and in the event that the price is to be 57 cents.

The principal objection to the pending rate resolution developed so far as to the clause providing for a minimum charge of 50 cents for each meter, with an allowance of 750 cubic feet of gas.

Those favoring adoption of the utilities board rates point out that they offer a substantial reduction and that it is highly probable they will be allowed to stand when the State Railroad Commission assumes control of rates two months hence. On the other hand, if the Council "doctors" the proposed rates, it is argued the case will likely be opened before the Railroad Commission, which makes a practice of allowing 8 per cent. earnings on investment as compared with 7 per cent. heretofore allowed by the city Public Utilities Board.

BROADWAY HEARING.
TO CONTEST ASSESSMENTS.

Hearing of protests against the assessment for opening Broadway between Tenth and Pico streets was opened before the Council yesterday, and, after preliminary statements by the council and representatives of the Rindge company, the hearing was continued until Friday at 2 p.m.

Clerk Carroll of the Council read an affidavit signed by all of the Councilmen denying they were prejudiced or incompetent to give the matter a fair hearing, and the attorney for the Rindge company asked to be allowed to present evidence supporting charges against the Council. Assistant City Attorney Houghton said the proposed "evidence," consisting mainly of newspaper clippings with reference to threats of Councilmen to sue the Rindge company for libel, would not be admissible.

Boost for Viaducts.

Another boost was given the grade separation movement in the Council yesterday by receipt of word from Sacramento that the Governor had signed the bill providing that cities and counties may join in the expense of constructing viaducts. This new law, which has been known as a Los Angeles city administration measure, was signed the day after Councilman Bryant, chairman of the Public Works Committee, sent a lengthy telegram to the Governor urging favorable action. The new law was drafted with the Macy-street viaduct in view, but will apply to all the viaducts included in the general plan of grade separation presented to the Council by the Public Utilities Board last week. It is said unofficially that the county administration will co-operate with the city in building the viaducts.

New Firehouse Needed.

Citizens residing along San Fernando road in the vicinity of the Washington Park school filed a petition with the City Clerk yesterday asking the Council to provide for an engine-house in that neighborhood. The request, signed by more than 400 citizens, points out that the school is a frame building and that the district is entirely without fire protection. The petition will go to the Budget Committee today.

Council Doings.

An ordinance was adopted by the Council yesterday for the improvement of Andrews boulevard between Sixth street and a point 600 feet north.

Protests against the improvement of Adams street from Grand avenue to Hoover street were set for June 16 at 9 a.m.

KEEPS GRIP ON YELLOW ASTER.

EXECUTOR WINNER OF SIGNAL VICTORY BY DECISION.

Effort of Woman to Oust Him from Affairs of the Mining Property, Really Fight for Control, Results in Vigorous Vindication by Ventura Judge.

Ward Chapman, friend of John Singleton, one of the owners of the Yellow Aster mine, and named by him as his executor, won a signal victory in the ouster suit brought by Mrs. Stella M. de Pauw, widow of Mr. Singleton. The case, heard by Judge Rogers of Ventura, sitting in Extra Sessions One, was decided against Mrs. De Pauw yesterday.

Judge Rogers said he believed it to be not only the right but the duty of Mr. Chapman to remain an executor of the Singleton estate. Mrs. De Pauw, now the wife of C. G. A. M. De Pauw, vice-president of the Yellow Aster Mine and Milling Company, charged that Mr. Chapman mismanaged the estate and was incompetent. The court held that he had been diligent, honest and efficient in his administration of the affairs of the estate.

"In fact, the evidence affirmatively shows that respondent (Mr. Chapman,) by reason of his long familiarity with the business of the testator (Singleton) and with the affairs of the corporation whose stock constitutes the assets of the estate, and his acknowledged professional ability, is particularly competent to act as executor."

Mrs. De Pauw's chief objection to Mr. Chapman appears to be that he is also attorney for Mrs. Rose L. Burcham, who has been actively interested in the management of the corporation. The entente cordiale between the two women is strained, and this cropped out during the trial of the action before Judge Rogers, Mrs. De Pauw recalling an incident of long ago. Mrs. De Pauw contended that Mr. Chapman could not serve two masters.

The testimony, however, did not show that Mr. Chapman intends to put Mrs. Burcham in control of the Yellow Aster, the court held. He also stated that the Singleton estate is vitally interested in having the affairs of the Yellow Aster company properly and efficiently conducted and that Mr. Chapman would be remiss in his duty as executor if he permitted the stock of the Singleton estate to be voted for persons or directors whom he does not believe to be proper persons for that purpose.

Mr. Chapman contended that Mrs. De Pauw is seeking to control the company by electing four of the seven directors; that she also sought to place her husband at the head of affairs. The real fight, as it appeared, was the control of the Yellow Aster Mine and Milling Company.

ARE THEY MARRIED?
QUESTION OF FRENCH LAW.

"Give me some money upon which I may live," cried Mrs. Piedad Moreno when John Moreno ordered her out of their house.

"I will give you a kick that you may run faster," replied Mr. Moreno, and fearing for her life, Mrs. Moreno left. These allegations are set up in her suit for divorce, which came before Judge Wood under singular conditions yesterday.

Piedad and John, seventeen years ago, resided in the city of Oran, Algeria. They are natives of Spain, and because of the expense of procuring documents, they agreed to live together as man and wife.

Mrs. Moreno alleges Mr. Moreno was cruel. In Spanish, he said to her:

"Que te vas al inferno," and again he told her she would not receive a dollar of his money. They have accumulated an estate of about $4800.

Now Mr. Moreno, through his attorney, raised the question of the validity of their union. He says it is no marriage at all; that the mere living together in Algeria, a French possession, did not constitute a valid marriage either there or in this country. Mrs. Moreno's attorney held the marriage is valid under the Napoleonic code. The court will consider the matter after authorities are filed.

WHAT IS NET PROFIT?
COURT MUST DETERMINE.

The suit of C. S. Young against the estate of C. A. Canfield raises the question, what is net profit? The story goes that Mr. Canfield acquired from Mr. Young 160 acres. Mr. Canfield paid the price and, taxes, amounting to $6700. Two years later he wrote Mr. Young a letter in effect that he was entitled to one-third of the net profit arising from the operation of final sale of the above-mentioned property.

In 1913 Mr. Canfield sold the property for $800v, and the following year, when Mr. Young learned it had been disposed of, he put in a bill for $411, representing his share of the net profits. Meantime, Mr. Canfield had passed away and the administrator of his estate rejected the claim. Figuring the interest paid on the investment, he said there was no profit.

Attorney Morgrage, representing the Canfield estate, set up that there is no net profit within the meaning of the contract unless there is an excess over the principal and interest. It appears that during the fourteen years Mr. Canfield held the property there was paid out $13,351, computing interest at 7 per cent. Mr. Young says there is a net profit and computes it at $411. Judge Taft, who heard the argument, took the matter under submission, the attorneys to cite authorities.

ACCUSES AUNT.
WANTS HIS MONEY BACK.

Joseph Hopkins came from Russia and got a fine job in the tailor shop of his uncle and aunt. He worked hard five years, paying back the money the uncle and aunt advanced for his transportation, and saving $1000. He fell sick and went to a hospital.

In a complaint filed yesterday against Sophia Rosenfeld Ryan, his aunt, and her husband, he alleges, she and his uncle went to the hospital and induced him to let them have the money he had in bank. This was $500, the remainder of the $1000 having been invested in real estate.

After this, he says, he was sent to Patton. The uncle died and the aunt remarried. Mr. Hopkins was discharged from Patton in 191? and sought his aunt. He says she told him as soon as his uncle's estate was settled, she would give him back the $500. In the end, she induced him, he says, to sell his real estate and loan her the money. Now he sues to recover $1025.32.

TWO BIG ESTATES.
FINAL DISTRIBUTION.

Final accounts and petitions for final distribution in two large estates were ordered by Judge Rives in the Probate Court yesterday. In the estate of Catherine M. Gray the amount ordered distributed to the sons, Thomas F., Joseph P. and William S. Gray, was $259,048 in equal shares.

Mrs. Gray owned property in Los Angeles, San Bernardino and Riverside counties. This was listed at $225,000. The personal property had a value of $17,000. In the will she bequeathed $10,000 to Thomas F. Gray; $1000 to Hannah Clements, a sister; $500 to Mary Madigan, and certain real estate to Gertrude Ponet Montgomery, a niece.

In the estate of William M. Paulin, the widow, Mrs. Emma Paulin, and the children, Clara G. Dickie of San Jose; Charles D. Paulin of this city, and James H. Paulin of Tulare, will receive the income from $110,000, which is placed in trust with the German-American Trust and Savings Bank. The widow will receive from this fund $2000 a year, and the balance goes to the children. Mrs. Paulin is bequeathed the furniture and furnishings in the home place at Sixth and Oxford streets.

GETS JUDGMENT.
BUT CAN'T COLLECT.

It is one thing to obtain a judgment against a man and another thing to collect it. Judge Jackson determined that Dr. Ephrain U. Robbins had alienated the affections of Mrs. Ida Gue in the damage suit brought by her husband, D. M. Gue. Attorney Moore was informed by the doctor, he says, that there was nothing on which to collect. So Dr. Robbins was cited into court in supplemental procedings yesterday. After a hearing, Judge Jackson discharged the citation.

Mrs. Gue and her elderly husband lived in Nebraska many years. She was unsophisticated. They removed to Los Angeles and in the course of events she went to Dr. Robbins for treatment. The treatments included massage "under a kimono," declared Dr. Robbins. Mr. Gue found his wife's love waning. Mrs. Gue admitted that in Dr. Robbins she had discovered an ideal man. She frankly told the court of her infatuation and the doctor's alleged misconduct, which the latter denied.

ATTACKS WILL.
SAYS MOTHER MISLED.

Mrs. Lucy E. Carns was cut off in the will of her mother, Mrs. Anna E. Yoakum, with $1. Because of the alleged undue influence of Mary Jane Hiatt, she is seeking to break the will, asserting it was her mother's intention to give her all the property with the exception of a few small bequests. Mrs. Yoakum died August 26, 1914, leaving an estate valued at $12,000.

Mrs. Carns says she paid her mother's expenses during her last illness and asserts Mrs. Yoakum was never told of it. She further declares that Mrs. Hiatt represented to Mrs. Yoakum that her daughter was attempting to have her placed in an insane asylum. On these grounds the court is asked to set aside the will.

MERE SPECTATOR.
AFTER MUCH LITIGATION.

Mrs. Fanny Briggs Carr was a spectator in Judge McCormick's court yesterday, a rather unusual attitude for her to assume, for she has been defending suits brought by her ex-husband, Ardian M. King, or prosecuting them for many months. Yesterday, however, Mr. King, through the Carr Company, was pressing an action against the Pacific States Telegraph and Telephone Company to enjoin it from advertising Mrs. Carr's name as manufacturer of face preparations, on the ground that it is an infringement on the Carr Company's right to the trade name.

The court was also asked to enjoin the telephone company from inserting the name on the ground that by doing so, it injured the business of the Carr Company. The telephone company demurred to the complaint, which was argued and submitted.

COURT PARAGRAPHS.

Coleman, who died at Pocatello, Ida., May 19 last, goes to the widow, Imogene Coleman, and the children, Heber, Leon and Barney Coleman, who reside in Pasadena. The estate consists of notes and stock. The petition for the probate of the will was filed by Mrs. Coleman yesterday.

Fire Destroys Episcopal ... Needy Men—Known as ... Mark's Home.

Twenty men are bedless as a result of a fire that destroyed the Home, an Episcopal charity, at No. 716 Towne avenue, this morning. No one was in the building at the time crosswires in the wall ignited the shingles, starting the fire that razed the structure.

For many years, the home was occupied as a church, being known as the Towne Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church. Later it became the Home, and more recently was known as St. Mark's Home. It served as a lodging-house for men without means. The auditorium of the church was used as a dormitory, the pews having been replaced with cots. Hustons ... superintendent of the Home, and H. LXIVTH YEAR. TUESDAY MORNING, JUNE 8, 1915.—4 PAGES. PART III.

MARY BROWNE SAYS AMERICAN WILL TAKE TITLE

CHARLIE CHAPLIN'S IDEA OF A GOOD MOVING-PICTURE COMPANY.

MARY BROWNE NOT TO DEFEND.

Woman's Champion Unable to Compete in East.

Will Play in the Exposition Tournament.

Mrs. Wightman is the Favorite Now.

Miss Mary Browne will forfeit her national title of tennis champion, but she predicts that an American will take her place. The championship event is being staged at Philadelphia now, and the present headliner is not to be on the carte-de-jour.

"I found it impossible to go East this season," said Miss Browne yesterday afternoon, "and so will have to give up the first-place position. I hate to be left out of the tournament, but there are several reasons why it must be done. Of course, I'd like to be back there, but it's too late now. There is a possibility, however, that the title winner will come West, and in that case we may be able to schedule a championship match."

LITTLE DOUBT.

"There is little doubt in my mind," continued the champ, "but that an American girl will take the honors this year. There is some good foreign competition, but it is not nearly good enough. We have many first-class examples of home talent, and one of them is sure to take the center of the lawn tennis limelight. The tournament will be a dandy, and lots of excitement is bound to be the result."

MRS. WIGHTMAN.

Mrs. George Wightman, formerly Miss Hazel Hotchkiss, is expected to be the bright and shining light of the affair. She will have some noteworthy rivals in Mrs. Marshall McLean, Mrs. Benjamin Briggs and the Norwegian champion, Miss Molla Bjurstedt. And there will be a long list of State champions to increase the closeness.

Although Miss Browne will be unable to attend the eastern tournaments during the 1915 season, she does not expect to give up her favorite pastime. Not at all. She will enter the exhibition matches at San Francisco this summer, and it is hoped that she will compete at Long Beach in July.

WHAT BEATTY DID IN NORTH.

Beatty, the new Angel first baseman, who makes his first appearance at home today, has been a mighty perfect fielder and not so perfect a batter in the first week's play. While his fielding percentage is 1000, his bat has only an average .222.

He has shown himself to be more spry and a better fielder than Abstein, the deposed. One week does not give a fair idea of the recruit's hitting, especially when he has to break in when the pitchers are going strong.

Out of twenty-seven times at bat he has got six hits. Twice he sacrificed; once he stole a base. Hitting is what the Angels need; a slump at bat cost Abstein his job. Los Angeles fans reserve their judgment of his batting, hand him everything on his fielding and hope that seasoning and acquaintance will bolster up that willow average in accord with his advance notices. Northern scribes say he looks like the goods. Here are his figures for the week:

MOUNTAIN LION NEARLY CAUGHT.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

VENTURA, June 6.—While passing Camp Comfort yesterday in an automobile, Under-Sheriff Hayden encountered in the road just ahead of him a half-grown mountain lion. The machine was stopped and a shot taken at the beast, which bounded up the mountain side and into the heavy brush. Men and dogs later went out to chase the lion, but saw nothing of him. Farmers in the section say that a lion has been operating in that section for some time.

CHAPLIN AS THE WHOLE SHOW.

BY LEEPSON BOWNES.

Charlie Chaplin's company is composed largely of Charlie Chaplin.

The clever Essanay comedian not only takes the leading part in his pictures, but he also writes all the scenarios used in his pictures and directs all the acting.

The truth of the matter is that Charlie practically does the acting for all the other members of the company for he always goes through their parts for them and shows them how he does it and then they try to copy after him.

The result of this concentration of power is that he is getting together a whole bunch of imitation Charlie Chaplins on his staff and anybody knows that Charlie cannot be successfully imitated, hence the "sameness" of his recent photoplays.

Anybody who tries to direct, act, write and in addition try to act for a lot of other people all at the same time is going to have his hands full and he will not do any one of these things well at which he might excel were he doing the one thing alone.

Charlie, it is said, is going to leave the Essanay at the close of his present contract and start a company of his own.

From what he is doing at the Essanay studios now it is presumed that he will shift the scenery and crank the camera in his new company in addition to merely acting, writing and directing.

Charlie may be versatile enough to get away with it. If he does he will be the first to succeed while trying to do half a dozen men's work at once.

The biggest stars among motion-picture actors are those who simply act and let experienced and competent men write their scenarios and direct their plays.

It looks to me as though the man who tries to be his own leading man, director and scenario writer will eventually become his own audience and be pretty lonesome at that.

FAKE CENSORS AT BEACH CITY.

BY AL. G. WADDELL.

Bathers may continue to indulge in weekly baths at Venice, made up in regulation decollete sea garb, with little to fear at the hands of the Venice police. If there is anything raw, the police will be able to handle the situation in a courteous manner without the aid of fake censor boards and practical jokers; but the fiver censorship board is due to go out of business. There were a few volunteers for the goat role but the frame-up purity squad overplayed their hand and it will be hard to get any more victims.

REQUEST.

The campaign against bathing suits beginning too late and ending too soon, supposedly waged by an alleged board of censorship at Venice, is an official myth. The arrests reported Sunday were not made; the three gentlemen listed as desperate characters did not come under the hand of the law; the photographs of the fake censorshiping and near arrests were posed for by request.

Men and women who volunteered as victims for the bunco raid did so to test the case or for the sake of sport. Special costumes were worn expressly for photographs just to see how strong the hoax would carry.

When the war on gentlemen's water toggery was first announced, it was believed to be genuine purity that the city officials or women's clubs were after. Upon investigation it developed that it was a huge joke, played for publicity purposes mostly; but at that, many bathers appeared on the beach Sunday in bathing suits of more than usual modesty.

During the morning the censors failed to report for duty. About the only excitement was caused by a lot of rowdies picking up loungers on the beach and throwing them into the surf. That ducking sport got over until one husky put up a fight and then went down to Ocean Park and recruited a "gang" for the purpose of combating with the official Venice ducking squad.

BLOSSOM.

About the middle of the afternoon censorship committees blossomed out like revolutions in Mexico. It was a dull day and the boys on the beach found it necessary to amuse themselves.

A squad of pseudo censors sallied out, armed with a tape measure, pencil and notebook, antique looking vision cheaters and an unusual amount of nerve. The first engagement was recorded when two young ladies clad in silk suits of orange and purple were given the once over.

The tape measure was used and the purity boys had an opportunity to get the names and telephone numbers under guise of moral and legal authority. Many suits were measured with varying degrees of success, but the majority of the victims took the matter seriously.

To make the bluff good, some of the boys on the beach were taken in hand and given the out sign. With apologies and excuses, these near victims would make a get-away through the crowd and make for parts unknown, returning as soon as the attention of the crowd was attracted in another direction. After sending some of the planted culprits off the beach, it was easy to get others. Old men were measured and sent off the strand. Many did not stop to talk, but made quick exits preparatory to a quick change for street clothes.

MODESTY.

The fake censors took care not to impersonate an officer. It was not necessary. The tape line and make-up was enough to convince the innocent law-breakers that they were in the hands of genuine modesty advocates.

When the censors reached Harry Burns they added a recruit to their lists. Burns is somewhat of a husky boy. He holds the title of world's champion bag puncher, is a boxer and wrestler. He promised to throw the first censor in the surf who came near him, and came so near keeping his word that he was invited to join the censors. The invitation was extended in self-defens.

Tim McGrath, well known fight manager and Shasta-water champion, was seen standing near the crowd and was invited to get in on the board. Tim really added dignity to the bunco pur-

HUGHES THROWS UP HIS HANDS.

San Francisco Takes the Last Game of Series.

"Ping" Bodie Lines Out Another Homer.

Beatty Only Angel to Cross the Plate.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 7.—The Angels lost the last game of the series by 6 to 1. Back of Pitcher Baum was some good fielding in the spots when fielding counted most. And also at his back was the timely hitting for which the San Francisco team seems to have a bent this series. Ping Bodie was the star with the stick, for he singled in the first, doubled in the third, and finally, in the eighth, came through with a home run over the center-field fence. All told, he drove in three of the tallies.

Roy Corhan was not so far behind his team-mate, for one of the doubles he engineered off the Hughes-Perritt duo sent in a couple of the lads who were ahead of him. Harry Heilmann not only poked out a couple of hits, but he stole three bases as well, that part of his work featuring in at least one of his runs.

UNFORTUNATE.

Tom Hughes was no more fortunate than on Saturday, when he essayed the task of beating the Seals. On that occasion he lasted until the fifth. Today he found himself put out of the running while the third chapter still was in process. Poll Perritt got along with much better luck, but the game had already been won and lost.

The Seals started with a run in the first. Paul Meloan, playing in right instead of Justin Fitzgerald, laid up temporarily, singled against the fence and went to second as Schaller grounded to first. Bodie hit him home with a left-field drive. A moment later Ping was safe at second, when Terry made a bad throw on a grounder by Heilmann, but Ping, guilty of a bit of "bone," was out trying to reach third.

EXECUTION.

The third was the inning of execution and the downfall of Hughes. Baum, lead-off batsman for the inning, fanned. Meloan grounded out infield, and then the fun commenced. Schaller was walked and worked his way around the bases as Bodie hit to center for two bases. The Bodie swat caromed off the fence at a bad angle and gave Biff plenty of time. Heilmann singled to left and Bodie came home, although perfect fielding by Ellis with a good throw might easily have retired Bodie at the plate.

Harry stole second and then third, while Downs walked and stole. Corhan followed with a single that rattled the fence boards and chased in the pair who were ahead of him.

Bodie's home run in the eighth concluded the scoring so far as the Seals were concerned.

TICKLISH.

Baum was in a mighty tight hole in the fourth. Beatty, who led off with a single to center, was forced at second by Wolter. McMullen flied to Bodie, but a single for Ellis, together with free transportation for Terry, filled up the bases. Clarence Brooks drove a speedy one at Corhan. The shortstop first of all fumbled, but recovered on the moment, and a fast throw across the diamond retired the catcher at first. Two runs would have been home could Brooks have beaten the throw.

Beatty registered the only run in the eighth. With one down, he beat out a hit to second, was advanced on a safety for Harry Wolter and put home by Ellis's long hit to center. Terry, with his third chance to drive

MATTY'S ARM FULL OF PAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CHICAGO, June 7.—Christy Mathewson, star twirler of the New York Nationals, has suffered so acutely from a dull pain in his left shoulder that he has been unable to sleep, it was learned here today.

Manager McGraw of the New York club had the famous pitcher examined by a nerve specialist yesterday to learn if the condition could be corrected. McGraw believes that, with proper treatment, Mathewson will regain his old-time form.

PENTZ NEW L. A. CAPTAIN.

Dean Pentz, front ranker on the L.A. Rugby squad, was elected captain of next fall's American football team. This will be Dean's second year on the first squad, and he ought to show up well. In the L.A.-Manual game Pentz made the only score for L.A. after a run of twenty yards. Pentz is a good man for the position, as he has had experience in the American game. He will help Featherstone coach the boys in the preliminary work.

Swindling by Mail.

[New York Commercial:] The extension of the mail service in the rural districts of this country has given impetus to schemes for the separation of the farmer and his cash, according to prominent farm journals. So attractive is the opportunity afforded by the cheap and effective postal facilities for fakers of all descriptions, that the Postoffice Department's detective service is kept busy all the year round thwarting frauds and occasionally sending them through the Federal judiciary mill to ultimate terms in the penitentiary. The swindling operations through the mails range from the sale of fake insurance policies and stock, gambling bucket shop operations and the sale of alleged de luxe editions of books down the line to petty lottery fakes and the sale of nostrums for the cure of all bodily ills.

Two famous Australian sporting celebrities, George Towne, the oarsman, and Harold Baker, swimmer, have arrived in Toronto. Towne has met practically all the best professional scullers of recent years. Baker is a brother of "Snowy" Baker, the Antipodean promoter of boxing and other sports. Harold Baker holds the Australian swimming records from 100 to 500 yards. He has met the best European professionals. The men will visit the Canadian and American centers in quest of matches as the war has stopped all contests in Australia. Towne wants to row against Eddie Durnan of Toronto, who is the Canadian and American sculling champion. Durnan is negotiating for a race with Frank Hagney, an Antipodean sculler now in New York.

MUNICIPAL CLUBHOUSE TO BE SELECTED THIS WEEK.

Patrons of Griffith Park Anxiously Awaiting Report of Budget Committee — Club Asks Admission to the Southern California Golf Association — Judge Frederickson Makes New Record.

BY ALMA WHITAKER.

SOME of the municipal golf [illegible] are keeping a watchful eye [illegible] Budget Committee which [illegible] this week. For according to its [illegible] they will know just what [illegible] clubhouse they are to be ac-

[illegible] W. Keller, the Griffith Park [illegible] chief, is ambitious. He hopes [illegible] something quite magnificent, to-[illegible] with piping for the course, [illegible] will enable them to keep it [illegible] the year round. In fact, there is [illegible] possibility that he is too ambi-[illegible] and his entirely parisseworthy [illegible] on behalf of golfers may [illegible] be luxurious to be considered.

[illegible] there is no doubt that [illegible] municipal links are a fac-[illegible] the life of a great [illegible] people. Last Sunday there must [illegible] two hundred or three [illegible] players out there, and every [illegible] close upon a hundred. And [illegible] votes. As a taxpayer my-[illegible] would regard any outlay, judi-[illegible] applied, on the municipal [illegible] as a genuine asset to the city. [illegible] clubhouse could be made [illegible] getting proposition from the [illegible] Griffith Park Golf Club has [illegible] so that they have arrived at [illegible] where they feel impelled to [illegible] limit on membership, and are [illegible] for membership in the South-[illegible] Golf Association.

A RECORD.

[illegible] meantime Judge Frederick-[illegible] established a new record for [illegible] which is not going to be [illegible] for some some. He had a 69 [illegible], 35 out and 34 in. Here it

.....4 4 2 6 5 5 3 3 4—35
.....3 5 4 4 3 4 4 3 4—34

[illegible] is the last of the judge's little [illegible] this year, for he has figured [illegible] winner of numerous associa-[illegible] events, notably the Victoria invi-[illegible] tournament, the runner-upship [illegible] cup, and the best gross at Or-[illegible] county. He has come back to [illegible] with remarkably consistent play this year, after suffering two or three seasons of disappointing offness.

WILSON'S PETS.

John W. Wilson, captain of the Los Angeles team, is a very anxious mamma these days. He is trying to keep his stylishly triumphant team under his wings until after the Tom Morris team competition next Wednesday, and the naughty boys all seem bent upon incapacitating themselves e'er the great day.

The harassed captain devoutly wishes that he could keep them all in a concentration camp, or anyway, a nursery, until the ordeal has passed. He is trying to make them all live on malted milk and marmalade, go to bed at 8 p.m., rise with the lark and do some useful exercises after their cold bath. He watches every mouthful that goes down their throats, inspects their underwear, makes them change their boots, and has issued imperative ultimatums about their general deportment.

THE DON'TS.

Bob Cash, for instance, has been implored to avoid wrestling matches with Macbeth. Jack Nevin has been forbidden to discuss the war news. And everybody has been warned not to mention the mollusc in the hearing of Macbeth. Wives have been enlisted to keep their hubbies home at nights. E. H. Seaver has been warned that more practice is essential. George H. Schneider is being cosied along like an opera prima donna, and his father-in-law has been asked to suspend his pro-German sympathies for the coming week. The only ones John Wilson feels any real confidence about are E. S. Armstrong and Jack Jevne. The former because he always does his best, and the latter because nothing makes any difference.

John Wilson is out to win the Tom Morris trophy for the Los Angeles Country Club in perpetuity, and woe betide the erring golfer who falls him through riotous living or reckless daring. Any one who entertains any members of that team this week will be sternly scrutinized—they had better look to their cooks, their draughty windows, their wine cellar, their smokes, for they will be held to strict account if one of Wilson's pets is incapacitated for the great day through their inferior hospitality.

The Pioneer Days.

VETERANS OF MOTOR CAR INDUSTRY AT BANQUET.

[illegible]-THREE members of the Ga-[illegible] and Repairmen's Association [illegible] California attended the associ-[illegible] banquet at the Bristol last [illegible]. In addition to the members [illegible] were several veteran automobile [illegible] entertained as guests.

[illegible] of the most interesting features [illegible] evening was a talk on the pio-[illegible] days of the automobile industry [illegible] Sam D. Sturgis, veteran motor car [illegible] who negotiated the first pub-[illegible] factory in Southern California in [illegible] motor vehicle.

[illegible] In 1891, Sam D. Sturgis was [illegible] proprietor of a machine shop and the motor works on the same property now occupied by the Alexandria Hotel. After following the automobile through the pioneer days, Mr. Sturgis said that the modern automobile was nothing more nor less than a common old pump highly developed.

E. L. Hitchcock, pioneer automobile builder whose activities date back to the old bicycle lays, also spoke on the the development of the automobile the good roads throughout the county, country.

Judge Thomas P. White, D. P. Oatman, secretary of the association, and President W. H. Jahns also spoke. Two of the guests were Messrs. McLaurin and Someby, Tri-State Good Roads Commissioners.

Some Pedestrian.

MAN WHO BEAT WESTON WALKING IS HERE NOW.

[illegible] HENRY MOONEY is with us. [illegible] is the champion walker of [illegible] New York fire department and [illegible] on a twenty-four months' leave [illegible] touring the country on foot [illegible] the interests of the two-platoon [illegible] recently adopted by Los An-[illegible].

[illegible] left New York January 28 [illegible] time has walked 4310 [illegible] during that time [illegible] pairs of shoes. "I walked [illegible] of the way with the ex-[illegible] of a mile across the [illegible]. And I couldn't very well [illegible] shoes on foot," grinned [illegible] of the trip.

[illegible] has been in the department [illegible] and was in the Equitable [illegible] York a couple of years [illegible] the pleasant experience [illegible] under a steel girder [illegible] hours with the ther-[illegible] good roads Mooney thinks [illegible] beating of forty-five miles [illegible] the best going, such as he [illegible] the desert through Arizona [illegible] Salome Pass, kept his time [illegible] under a record as a [illegible] named Howard Payson Weston across the continent three or four years ago and beaten the veteran in to San Francisco by twenty-four days.

On this last trip, Mooney lost thirty-six pounds.

He will remain in the city for about a week and will then continue on his way to San Francisco, where he will consider his journey at an end.

While on his trip he has accompanied various companies to fires as a volunteer and in this manner has attended more than 500 fires since the last of January. He is making his local headquarters at hook and ladder No. 9.

NEYLAND NAVY BALL CAPTAIN.

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WEST POINT, June 7.—Cadet Robert R. Neyland, Jr., of the class of '16, who has pitched phenomenal ball for the army baseball team for the past two seasons, was elected captain of the army nine today. Until beaten by Fordham a few weeks ago, Neyland's record of wins covering two years was twenty straight.

Fake Censors at Beach.

[illegible]ity squad standing twenty feet away from the tape artists.

About the time that the sport played out the report drifted down the beach that the real censors were at work.

WOMAN CENSOR.

Investigation followed. There was a real nice looking woman worked into the center of a scene in which two police officers, several women and a man in a derby hat were conspicuously present. After the photograph was made the young lady was thanked and she went her merry way.

Harry Burns offered his services as a director. He instructed several bathers ta climb up on a swing rack, out of reach of the censors, and make signs registering mingled fear and "I-should-worry" expressions. This made and excellent photograph, with the censors, self-appointed for the scene, trying to get at the lads perched on the rail. The story was read that the censors kept the boys on the roost al afternoon, but said yarn failed to get over.

JURY OUT.

After the official Venice photographer had shot all the plates but one, an extra special photograph was arranged. A line of bathers was assembled and the scene was supposed to show how the boys were given the once over. It was a fake photograph like the whole censorship flurry; but the industrious press agent used it to good advantage.

For publicity purposes phony bathing-suit censors are all to the good; but when it comes to a showdown whether or not such publicity does the city of Venice any good, the jury is still out.

The death is announced at Christchurch, New Zealand, of Edward Cutts, a well-known trainer of race horses, at the age of 77 years. For thirty years the deceased was private trainer for Sir George Clifford. He trained the winner of nearly every important event in New Zealand.

The San Francisco to Honolulu yacht race scheduled for June 12 has been called off.

SPORT SHORTS.

Bobby Wallace, former star shortstop of the Browns, who was given his release recently, was yesterday appointed an American League umpire and will make his first appearance in his new role today at Boston.

The Philadelphia women golfers cleaned up their fair rivals from New York on Saturday, taking nine of the fifteen singles bouts and all of the foursomes. This gives them the Clebent A. Griscom cup.

Mrs. Marshall McLean of Norristown won the tennis championship of Pennsylvania in singles Saturday by defeating Mrs. C. N. Beard, 6-0, 6-2. She also won the doubles paired with Miss Molla Bjurstedt, the Norwegian star.

G. F. Touchard defeated F. B. Alexander, former internationalist, in the finals of the Sleepy Hollow Club tourney. It was a hard-fought match. Touchard finally winning with a score of 1-6, 6-4, 6-2, 12-10.

Secret football practice for teams in the Big Nine Conference was practically abolished on the grounds that it is absolutely useless. Secret practice may be held two days a week.

Francis Carroll, star third baseman of the Fordham University baseball team was yesterday signed by the New York Giants. This was quite a surprise as Carroll was considered as good as signed by Connie Mack.

Miss Grace Sample of the St. Louis Country Club became women's State golf champion yesterday when she defeated Miss Louise Kaiser in the finals of the women's State tourney, 2 up and 1 to play.

SAN PEDRO TOO GOOD FOR THEM.

THREE TWO BAGGERS, A HOMER AND OTHER HITS DO THE WORK.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN PEDRO, June 6.—The San Pedro Merchants took the ginger out of the Los Angeles Railway team in the first inning today by getting three two-baggers, one home run, two singles and five hits. The score at the end of the ninth stood, 10 to 5.

Batteries—Day and Manuels for San Pedro; Schultz and Whitehead for Railroaders.

Bombardier Wells and Dick Smith, the ex-amateur champion heavyweight boxer of England, have been matched to box in London on May 31.

Easy Enough.

JOE MANDOT OUTPOINTS AZEVEDO AT NEW ORLEANS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW ORLEANS, June 7.—Joe Mandot of New Orleans won a well-earned decision tonight from Joe Azevedo after fifteen rounds of hard fighting. The decision of Referee Tommy Burns meeting the approval of 6000 fans, the largest crowd that has seen a fight here in many years. Mandot had eight of the rounds, Azevedo five, while two were even.

Mandot knocked Azevedo down in the eleventh round with a right to the jaw and the Portuguese fighter, although he was up quickly, did not recover during the remainder of the bout and took an awful beating. Mandot splitting his left eye with a right and his lip with a left.

Azevedo did his most deadly work in the clinches and surprised the fans by his ability to sidestep and counter. He landed many hard body blows and had Mandot in distress in the ninth round, but was unable to take advantage of his gains when Mandot forced the fight at long range, jabbing Azevedo at will with rights and lefts. He outreached the Portuguese by three inches.

Jack Doyle won the decision over Johnny Summers in the sixth round in the semi-final.

George Sirey knocked out Pat Burke in one round and Kid Beale and Young Britton fought a four-round draw.

Mrs. Deborah A. Milliken of New Orleans has presented to the Southern Yacht Club of that city a cup of solid silver costing $1000 which will be awarded annually in an open contest for any knockabout cabin sloop. The trophy is designed after a silver pitcher won by her late husband, Commodore Milliken, in a regatta at Pass Christian, Miss., in 1854.

Coach Jim Ten Eyck, Jr., of the Duluth Boat Club has started forty-eight candidates in training for the various regattas in which the Duluth crews will take part this year.

Italia Irredenta

Whether Italy's entrance into the War was an act of "unparalleled perfidy," as Emperor Francis Joseph proclaims it, or whether it was justified and made unavoidable by a policy of treaty-breaking and temporizing on the part of her former ally, Austria, is a question that drops into the background because of the more important one that is in many minds: Can Italy's army and navy turn the scale of battle and bring the war to an end in favor of the Allies?

In THE LITERARY DIGEST for June 5th, Italy's position as viewed from every angle by leading newspapers of America and Europe is shown, also

A Fine Map of the Austro-Italian Boundary, Across Which the Italian Army Is Striking

The consensus of American newspaper-opinion seems to hold that Germany's reply to President Wilson's protest is evasive, and in some quarters there is grave apprehension that it presages a stand on Germany's part which may draw the United States into war. In this grave crisis the war news presentation in THE LITERARY DIGEST will be appreciated by all thoughtful people, giving, as it does, without animus, and without distortion, every feature as it arises.

The wide scope of the contents of THE LITERARY DIGEST, in the issue of June 5th is shown by the following interesting subjects fully covered, and illustrated with striking maps, photographs and cartoons:

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY (Publishers of the Famous NEW Standard Dictionary), NEW YORK

AT THE STAGE DOOR

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

Lew Dockstader, over at the Orpheum, wrote most of that very clever monologue satirizing T. R. himself.

"Oh, sometimes I called in the Cabinet," he admits.

Split a Slat.

Mr. Dockstader broke a rib day before yesterday.

"Would like to say I broke it rescuing a fair dame," said Dockstader, "but I can't. Fact is I just merely sat down where the chair wasn't.

"I wrote Roosevelt I was trying to conscientiously live up to my impersonation of him (he broke two ribs recently;) I also told him that as they were slaughtering men by the thousands over on the other side he would have to do something more than break two measly slats to get into the limelight again."

A Brunhilde.

Mme. Mariska Aldrich, dramatic soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera Company, who opened at the Orpheum yesterday, sang all the Brunhilde roles in Berlin before the beginning of the war. In fact, she remained in that city for some time after the outbreak of hostilities, and had a very difficult and dangerous trip through the war zone.

Her big sheep hound "Faust" was a well-trained animal and she loaned him to the government during her stay in Berlin to guard a section of the railroad tracks over which the troops were transported. At one time the clever animal brought in a package of valuable papers which were accidentally dropped from a train.

This summer Mme. Aldrich will spend on her big ranch in Missouri, where she has two children, several horses and some valuable dogs.

Movie Try-out.

James Neill's class in the art of the photodrama put on a real picture last Sunday. This will shortly be shown at one of the leading film houses, where managers may view it with the prospect of hiring such of the embryo screen artists as they deem promising.

Handsome Bill.

Is "If I were King" to be put on at the Morosco with Bill Desmond in the leading role? Very possibly.

It seems the matinee idolizers have declared open season on handsome Bill, who is modestly earning his living before the camera out at the Morosco-Bosworth studio. He likes picture work and is earnestly studying his art, even practicing a few Charlie Chaplin neck falls for future reference.

Every mail brings letters to the Morosco offices from the matinee fans, asking for another glimpse of Mr. Desmond in that successful role of his, Francois Villon.

Desert Unnecessary.

Cyril Maude arrived in the city yesterday and will appear in pictures for the Morosco-Bosworth company. This is his first visit to California. He likes us and our climate, but he thinks that hot desert over which he passed on Sunday wholly unnecessary.

Pageant Pictures.

The Major Film Company has secured exclusive motion pictures of the school children's pageants at the Stadium last week, and will exhibit them at the Majestic Theater during the week of June 13.

Mix-up.

There are, it appears, two Robert Warwicks in the picture business. One is the manager of a new motion-picture company established in this city, and the other is an actor who is appearing in pictures for the William A. Brady company at Fort Lee, N. J. There has been some confusion among the picture exhibitors and actors as to how one man could be in two places at once. Well, from the above it appears he "ain't."

Pageant.

Senora Josefa Yorba, the famous Spanish woman whom Lucretia del Valle portrays in the "Mission Play," attended the pageant drama yesterday and visited Miss Del Valle in her dressing-room. She was accompanied by sixty-two other Yorbas who accompanied her from Los Vietos. At one time the Yorbas owned all the land around San Juan Capistrano, the mission at which the last act takes place.

Some day there will be an act in vaudeville which does not have a Ford joke in it.

Arthur Duffey says: "This is going to be a great season for quarter-milers. In fact, it wouldn't be surprising if a new quarter-mile mark was put up this year. The sprints and the distance runs at present are at a point where the marks will stand for some time, while some of the field events hardly will be touched."

EVANS MAY BE AT HOLLYWOOD.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, June 7.—Is Clint Evans, the crack coach of Pomona High, going to leave the Citrus Belt League? That is the question being discussed among the high school athletes here, for there was a persistent rumor floating at the league meeting held at San Bernardino that he will leave Pomona High. The rumor has it that Evans will coach the Hollywood team.

The High School students here are all rejoicing because Pomona voted for the American game at the league meeting. It means that every school in the league will change to the old game next year. Redlands was anxious that all the schools make the change if any did and the action of Pomona means that Rugby has been shelved for good.

ANNUAL SURF SWIMMING RACES TO BE SATURDAY.

A FINE schedule of swimming events have been arranged for the near future at Ocean Park by Les Henry, the first of these to be run next Saturday afternoon.

The annual surf swimming races will be held in the afternoon in the ocean for both men and women, and short races and diving competitions will be held in the bath house for youngsters. These races will be the big events on the programme Topango day at Ocean Park and thousands of visitors will be on hand to view the contests.

The surf championships will be started from the beach and the swimmers will have to go out through the surf, around a flag opposite the end of the pier and return to the beach at the starting point.

The men's event will be about 200 yards longer than the ladies's race, but they will both be very interesting and very difficult for the contestants if the water is at all rough.

Races will be held in the bath house for youngsters, 10, 12 and 16 years old, for girls 16 and under and diving for boys 16 years old and under.

Entry blanks will be out tomorrow for these events and can be had at any of the sporting goods houses or any of the bath houses in the south.

Ludy Langer, winner of the last year's race in the surf for the men, stated in a letter a few days ago that he would possibly be here in time for this event. He is now with hte U.C. engineering summer campers.

Eileen Allen, winner of the ladies's surf race last year, has agreed to enter this event as well as Miss Dorothy Burns, Cora Weber, Mae Seward and Leona Richmond.

August 1 has been set as the day for the fourth annual rough water swimming races for men and women and these events on this date, just a week after the big championships in San Francisco, should draw many of the Eastern champions who will be on the Coast at that time.

MANY VETERANS AT POMONA.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

POMONA, June 6.—The fact that the Pomona High School championship Rugby football team only loses four veteran players this year and has fifteen regulars upon which to build a new team is deemed sufficient reason for the popularity of Rugby in the local school this year. Capt. Pete Varcoe says he only loses two substitutes and will have sixty substitutes from which to choose new material without drawing a freshman.

The men who leave the team are Creswell, Nesbit, Martin and Wilson of the letter squad, and Roberts and Hughson of the substitute list. Varcoe says he is certain that he can make a four-game schedule without difficulty. He looks for games with Redlands, and with Manual, Lincoln and Polytechnic High Schools of Los Angeles.

He says that the football squad has decided to play Rugby even in the event that Coach Clint Evans signs up with Hollywood. "We'd be foolish to quit Rugby while we have the making of another championship team," says Varcoe. "But two years from now we won't have enough veterans left to count. There may be some chance for American football at that time."

PROGRAMME VARIES FROM DEEP SEA FISHING TO DANCING.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

HERMOSA BEACH, June 7.—Anglers for deep sea fish came from many of the surrounding towns and Los Angeles yesterday to participate in a picnic arranged for their special benefit by the Rod and Reel Club here. Various forms of amusement and sport, from deep sea fishing and a casting contest to free dancing at the municipal pier dance hall, were treats for the visitors.

Clam chowder, symbolical of the beach, was served free on the pier and hungry ones were entered in a pie-eating contest. The casting tournament was held on Fifteenth street in the morning and later a swimming race. In the afternoon races were a feature of the programme. At 5 o'clock prizes were awarded for the best largest fish caught off the pier by a woman and one prize for a similar catch by a man.

The revelers, who came from many directions, stayed until as late as 1 o'clock, old-time fishermen taking advantage of the opportunity to fish at night for game sea fish.

BRANDSTETNER FORCED TO SWIM FOR FOOTBALL

THE Los Angeles Athletic Club football squad is spring training.

The first sample was placed before the public gaze last Sunday, when the entire gang hied itself to Venice and opened up the season in true and romantic style. A good many of the fellows decided that they would rather be bathing-suit censors than football heroes and this nearly caused trouble.

Beach costumes were used instead of the customary togs and the signal practice took place on the Venice sands. This sort of field was a trifle slow and there were too many side attractions, but some slight degree of progress was made just the same.

The greatest excitement was kicked up when the football accidentally landed about a hundred yards out in the ocean. It was agreed that someone must go and get it. But who? No one cared to swim just then and there was a terrible argument. Finally it was decided to settle the by drawing straws. Some bum held the straws, and Mr. Brandstetner, the who had sure enough clothes picked out for the task.

Brandy was very mean about strongly asserted his disa the undertaking. In fact, that he would not go. Wh someone who has a suit on do the dirty work? selected and fate must be
